

CAPONE GETS SIX-MONTH JAIL TERM

REPUBLICANS IN HOUSE UNITE ON PARTY LEADERS

15 Members Absent from Caucus to Hold Balance of Power Next Term

DRY LAW DISCUSSED

Five Kansas Regulars Stay Away—Schneider Also Among Absentees

Washington—(P)—In harmonious mood, the house Republicans last night decided to support Speaker Longworth and the present slate of officers for re-election next session.

But away from the party caucus stayed 15 members who refused to commit themselves, by attending, on either candidates or policies. Five of these were Kansas regulars, increased at the final refusal, delivered the ways and means committee, to consider oil embargo legislation at this session.

The rest were members of independent tendencies with various demands for legislation and further recognition of their group. United, this group can hold the balance of power in the next house, for the membership is almost equally divided between the parties.

The Republicans of the powerful rules committee were instructed to bring in at the next caucus recommendations for changes in the house regulations. Chairman Snell agreed. The present rules by their stungency have caused numerous grievances. He indicated they would be loosened.

Meeting Is Secret

Two other matters brought up at the meeting, behind closed doors, were prohibition and adoption of a policy favoring restriction of oil and anthracite imports. But no action was taken on these controversial issues, which were remanded to the first conference of the next congress.

Members from every state with Republican representation except Kansas were placed on the committee of committees which selects the Republican membership of these groups. Kansas, although represented at the caucus by Representative Strong, was omitted because of the hold by the remainder of the delegation.

The Kansas absentees were Representatives Sparks, Hoch, Hope, Hoyer and Lamberton. They issued a statement saying while they remained Republican believers in party organization and trusted Democratic protestations, the oil action forced them "to preserve beyond any question our freedom of action."

In Topeka, Republican Representative-elect McGugin said he would give his vote to the Democrats. Representative Gerber, Republican, Oklahoma, although attending the caucus, said the oil decision was one the eastern states "will repent in sackcloth and ashes."

He said a sufficient number of western Republicans would join the Democrats in the next congress to "open up the tariff."

"When we do, the duties are going to be leveled and apportioned on eastern manufacturers on the same basis with their arguments against an oil tariff."

Other absentees at the meeting were Representatives Mues, Selvig and Christian of Minnesota; Perry, Schneider, Cooper, Kading and Nelson of Wisconsin, and LaGuardia of New York. Still others were away because of illness, or other cause.

The selection of officers was unanimous. Besides Longworth, who has served six years, they included Floor Leader Tilson of Connecticut; William Tyler Page, clerk of the house; Joseph G. Rodgers, sergeant-at-arms, and others.

Senate Over-Rides Hoover's Bonus Veto

250 Killed By Storm On Fiji Islands

South Sea Island Group Moves to Aid Injured and Homeless

Suva, Fiji Islands—(P)—With at least 250 persons, including five Europeans, dead, this South Sea island group turned today to the task of aiding the hundreds of injured and thousands left homeless by a terrific hurricane which raged for more than twenty-four hours last Saturday and Sunday.

Striking virtually without warning, the hurricane started at noon Saturday. It blew itself out late Sunday and since then Suva and vicinity has been all but isolated from the rest of the world. The extent of damage was not learned here until today, when communications were partially restored.

Authorities still were using native couriers to gather information. One was dispatched to the Ba district. He swam the swollen Ba river and ran the 40 miles to Ba and return in 48 hours. He found at least eighty dead and said at one place 1,200 refugees were awaiting food and shelter.

Unconfirmed dispatches from the Sigatoka district said 100 were drowned by floods resulting from torrential rains which accompanied the terrific winds. The Lautoka district reported 17 identified dead and 23, including 4 Europeans, missing. Dispatches said they were believed to have been killed or drowned.

LAWRENCE NICHOLS DENIES MURDER PLOT

Antigo Case May Reach Jury Today—Mrs. Nichols Still to Testify

Antigo—(P)—Emphatic denial of charges of complicity in the slaying of John Murphy, 65, was made in circuit court today by Lawrence Nichols, 23, who is jointly accused with his mother, Mrs. Rose Nichols, 43, of plotting the Deerbrook farmer's death to gain possession of his property.

After entering into the court record the brief denial of the charges, Vernon McHale, defense counsel, turned his attack on the state's case into another channel. He elicited statements from the witness, charging Antigo police officers with "unnecessary roughness" when Lawrence and his mother were being questioned following their arrest.

Chief of Police William Cobenz and Policeman John Uehner, named by Lawrence in the assault charges, had previously denied from the witness stand that they "struck" either of the defendants.

The defense opened its case today with testimony from William Murphy, brother of the slain Deerbrook farmer, who testified that the farm property which the defendants allegedly sought to obtain belonged entirely to his brother.

Mrs. Nichols, sister of Murphy, was expected to testify this afternoon, and the case was expected to go to the jury late today or tomorrow.

SEN. BINGHAM THINKS HOOVER TO RUN AGAIN

Washington—(P)—The prediction that President Hoover will run for re-election was made in the senate today by Senator Bingham in lauding the president's "courage for leading the Veterans Loan bill."

The Connecticut Republican has "told to add he had not talked with Mr. Hoover about a second term."

Missing Assemblyman Sought In Lake Monona

Madison—(P)—Search for Assemblyman H. A. Aune, 50, Baldwin, St. Croix co., who disappeared Wednesday after answering the assembly roll call, was at a standstill today. The search had been accelerated by a note to Dr. C. A. Harper of the state board of health, in which Aune implied he was going to commit suicide.

Chief of Police William H. McCormick said detectives searched along Lake Monona east of the capitol where Aune said his body would be found, but no trail on the shore was indicated that anyone had walked into the lake. The chief said his department would be unable to drag the lake bottom until the ice opened.

LOANS TO VETS NOW AVAILABLE UNDER NEW LAW

Brief Delay as Senators Argue President's Objections to Measure

Washington—(P)—The Veterans bill was enacted into law today over the veto of President Hoover.

The senate voted decisively to override the presidential opposition. This action, coupled with a similar decision yesterday by the house, put the law into immediate effect.

The act authorizes World war veterans to borrow up to half the face value of their adjusted compensation certificates—an estimated average of $500 being made available to each of the 2,408,000 ex-service men who hold the insurance.

As in the house, the senate flouted the veto with little ceremony. With two-thirds votes required, the house count was 328 to 75.

The roll call follows:

For the bill: Republicans—Blaine, Brookhart, Capper, Carey, Couzens, Cutting, Dale, Davis, Denen, Frazier, Glenn, Goldsborough, Hale, Hatfield, Howell, Johnson, Jones, Keane, Keyes, LaFollette, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Partridge, Patterson, Pine, Robinson, of Indiana, Schall, Shortridge, Steiwer, Thomas of Idaho, Townsend, and Vandenberg—36.

Only one senator who previously voted for the bill switched to sustain the veto.

HIGH COURT TO DROP M. W. A. DUES DISPUTE

Washington—(P)—The supreme court indicated today it would dismiss an attack by members on an advance in dues by the Modern Woodmen of America, fraternal insurance society. The society's claim it had the authority to make the change was sustained by the Illinois Supreme court.

Leslie G. Pefferle, of Springfield, Ill., attorney for John W. McKissick and B. W. Wright, who attacked the advance in rates, had argued but a few minutes before Chief Justice Hughes informed him the court felt it had no jurisdiction.

EDITOR ASSAILS BILL FOR TAXING UTILITIES

Madison—(P)—The Groves bill to tax public utilities at local and regional rates rather than on a state rate was opposed vigorously by John C. Chappie, managing editor of the Ashland Press, at a hearing before the assembly tax committee yesterday.

The bill, he said, was the "most vicious piece of legislation affecting the northern Wisconsin counties and its people that has been placed on the statute books for a long time."

ACT TO CUT RED TAPE ON WHEAT SHIPMENTS

Paris—(P)—Means of eliminating red tape in the shipment of wheat and securing lower rail rates and faster transit facilities were discussed today by delegates to the European conference meeting here to plan the marketing of future wheat harvests.

The final meeting of the conference which will be held tomorrow, Resolutions will be submitted to the meeting of the international institute of agriculture in Rome in March, as well as to the committee studying plans for a European union, which will meet in Geneva in May.

FRAZER TO REVISIT PLACE OF SLAYING

Elizabeth, N. J.—(P)—William Frazer of Rahway, back from Rahway, N. J., to tell more of the killing of Mrs. Phoebe Quick Stoffer, 32-year-old land-dresser, was to be taken today to the spot where he said the woman was shot.

Gunmen Kill Proprietor Of Roadhouse

Milwaukee—(P)—With a jammed revolver clutched in his hand, Peter Paolo, 43, a roadhouse proprietor with a police record, was shot and killed early today by two men as he stood in the doorway of a suburban pool hall. Three shots were fired by the two gunmen, who escaped.

Five men, including Mike Delano, proprietor of the pool hall, were taken to the sheriff's office for questioning. The sheriff was also attempting to find Florence Vangerlin, friend of Paolo, in whose automobile he drove to the pool hall.

When George Steffens, a railroad detective, arrived on the scene, he found Paolo lying face downward with a loaded revolver in his hand. Steffens told authorities he witnessed the shooting from across the street, but said he did not get a good look at the occupants of the machine.

Undersheriff Joseph Klein said, after questioning Delano and others, that he believed the two men who shot Paolo were in the pool hall and engaged in an argument with Paolo a short time prior to the shooting.

Paolo was manager of the Idlewild club in the town of Lake, and formerly was owner and operator of the Paradise gardens, near the city limits on the west side. He was known as a night life character in the city for nearly 15 years.

CRACKSMEN LOOT BLUE RIVER BANK

Blow Open Safe and Escape With Cash and Securities

Blue River, Wis.—(P)—The Blue River State bank was looted early today by a gang of cracksmen who blew open the safe and escaped with an undetermined amount in cash and securities.

A woman resident of the village, aroused with others by a series of explosions, told authorities she saw three men loitering in the vicinity of the building, all wearing masks, and one of whom was carrying a telephone exchange and the other a pot, across the street from the bank had been out.

No estimate of the loss was attempted by bank officials who were awaiting the arrival of detectives with fingerprinting equipment with the view to obtaining some clue to the identity of the cracksmen.

It was believed the robbers fled southward since the highway in that direction was sprinkled with nails, presumably scattered to disable automobiles in pursuit.

The safe, furniture, and records of the bank were badly damaged by the blast.

INSURANCE MEASURE FAILS TO GET BACKING

Madison—(P)—Lack of support for the resolution of Assemblyman Allen J. Busby calling for a referendum on compulsory automobile liability insurance was indicated at a hearing before the assembly banking and insurance committee here yesterday.

The resolution is so general that it is practically meaningless and would defeat its purpose involved, Mr. J. M. Wilkie, Madison, counsel for Wisconsin insurance interests, said.

Assemblyman Busby said the legislature should know the attitude of the people before enacting such measures.

WITNESSES IDENTIFY BANK BANDIT SUSPECT

Madison—(P)—With several witnesses having identified Stanley Ford, 33, Chicago, as one of the bandits who robbed the Mt. Horeb bank last October of $17,000, the state today attempted to prove further connection with the holdup in testimony of a Chicago hold-up clerk.

Charles L. O'Brien, the clerk, identified Ford as the man, who cashed four travelers checks in the hotel where he is employed. The state said the checks were part of the Mt. Horeb loot.

Jacob Lingard, cashier of the bank identified Ford as one of the bandits when the trial opened several days ago and yesterday Miss Mary Brandt, a bookkeeper, added her word that he is the man, John Wilbert, a patron, today claimed he saw Ford among the bandits.

FIREARMS BILL IS PASSED BY LOWER HOUSE

"Dangerous Weapon Any Firearm, Loaded or Unloaded," Solons Rule

Madison—(P)—The request of the state supreme court for statutory definition of firearms received assembly momentum today as the house passed the Young bill, which says a dangerous weapon is "any firearm whether loaded or unloaded." The measure now goes to the senate.

The bill was introduced after a recent supreme court decision, which included the request for a definition. The matter of distinguishing between loaded and unloaded firearms had arisen in numerous court cases.

Despite the fact that it met less than an hour because of the legislative trip of inspection to state prison at Waupun, the assembly handled more than a dozen bills. The Miller ice fishing measure passed the house. It provides that no closed season be observed in the Mississippi river and adjacent waters in counties bordering the river or in Allouez bay, Superior bay, St. Louis bay and St. Louis river confluence with Lake Superior.

Bills passed by the assembly today were:

By HFT—Imposition of fees for late filing of income tax returns may not be contested, provided if no tax is assessed the $5 fee shall be cancelled if the person filed a return before fee became delinquent.

By Rubin—Reducing waiting period under workmen's compensation act from eight to three days.

Disability Provision

Which computes the indemnity according to an employee for permanent disability shall be determined on the basis of earnings he would earn on attaining the age of 30, instead of 21.

Bills endorsed today:

By Keller—Jurors must be examined to ascertain if they are related to any attorney appearing in action being heard.

By Sigman—Members of the tax commission must not be employed by any private person, firm or corporation whose taxes are assessed or determined by the commission.

The assembly adopted the HFT resolution memorializing congress to enact a law making income from royalties on patents and copyrights taxable under the state income tax laws, and the Hampel resolution memorializing congress to provide for a five day working week throughout the federal service.

A resolution by Sen. Philip E. Nelson, Maple, memorializing congress to enact a federal old age pension law was concurred in.

EINSTEIN PREPARES FOR HOMEWARD TRIP

Pasadena, Calif.—(P)—Dr. Albert Einstein, having bade farewell to fellow scientists here with a smiling "ill we meet again," leaves California today to return to Berlin.

Two months of intensive study at the Mount Wilson Carnegie institution of Washington Astronomical observatory and the California Institute of Technology physics research work have given him much to think about, Einstein said.

The Einstein party will spend tomorrow at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona, continuing by train direct to New York after making a motor trip Sunday through the petrified forest of Arizona. No appearance will be made in Chicago.

The party will embark on the liner Deutschland for Germany upon arrival in New York, March 4. Einstein is to appear at a Jewish banquet there before sailing.

President "Outpromised Everybody," Big Bill Says

Washington—(P)—Mayor Thompson of Chicago named President Hoover in testimony today before the house flood control committee, as having "outpromised everybody" in connection with work to alleviate the danger of floods but not having had the works put ahead as rapidly as possible.

Invited to appear because of his work at the flood control conference in Chicago last January, the mayor outlined the program of the Mississippi Valley Waterway and Flood Control association.

He said it wants the government to "lead that flood control is a national problem and make the necessary appropriations."

He appreciated the committee's action in obtaining congressional approval of a $200,000,000 apportionment by President Coolidge, he said, but thought the "administration" during the 1927 "cataclysmic disaster" has not gone ahead as rapidly

Labor Chief Discusses Red Menace In United States

"Unreasonable" Employers Handicap Federation in Fight, He Says

Sees Menace

Cleveland—(P)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor told Clevelanders today that "unreasonable" attitudes on the part of some employers in this country is giving a powerful boost to Communism, despite the efforts of the federation to avoid it.

The labor leader made lengthy comment on the situation when he arrived here and came face to face with the strike and lock-out of union cooks and waiters at several leading hotels.

The union employees of the hotels lost their jobs several months ago when they refused to sign alleged "yellow dog" contracts. Since then, city officials and numerous prominent citizens have endeavored to settle the trouble by arbitration but the hotel managements refused flatly to discuss the matter.

"Everywhere we hear business men discussing in apprehensive tones the 'soviet menace,'" Green began. "Now let me point out something. 'It is just such an attitude as that of the Cleveland hotels, just such unreasonable tactics that tend to develop the Communist spirit."

"It makes men rebel against the social order that allows employees of many years standing to be cast out of their jobs because they refuse to sign contracts that would leave them helpless and a prey to whatever conditions might be brought into existence."

"Let me tell you," the labor leader went on, "that the old Russian aristocracy would be greatly pleased if they could deal with trades unions now."

Turning to the unemployment problem, Green said the federation is giving more thought to this question than to any other "because it is an absolute necessity for us to prevent any recurrence of such a situation as that we are passing out of now."

"Drastic revisions of our mode of living are being brought about by the machine age and the welfare of human beings must be protected."

RAIN AND SNOW HITS NORTHERN WISCONSIN

Snow and rain swept into northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan today overshadowing the end of the ideal weather conditions of the past week according to Frank Coleman, meteorologist, in charge of the weather bureau at Milwaukee.

More than five inches of snow covered Superior and Douglas co. this morning. The snowfall was accompanied by a light wind, with temperatures barely below freezing. Conditions were ideal, weathermen said, for the heaviest snowfall of the winter.

Cloudiness prevailed in southern and central Wisconsin with temperatures ranging between 30 and 35 degrees above zero. Coleman predicted occasional rain in the northeast portion and slightly warmer in east and south portions tonight.

YOCUM KIDNAPERS GET SEVEN-YEAR SENTENCES

Chicago—(P)—Four men who pleaded guilty to kidnaping Earl L. Yocum, millionaire Galva banker, were under sentence today to serve seven years in prison.

The penalty was imposed late yesterday by Judge Leonard E. Tollen, after a number of the prisoners' neighbors pleaded in their behalf. Elvire Whiskers, one of the quartet, took the stand, assumed all blame, but said he engineered the plot to recoup his depleted finances.

The other defendants were Harry Whiskers, cousin of Elvire; Vernon Abigren and Lloyd Winslow.

SENTENCED IN FEDERAL COURT FOR CONTEMPT

Judge Says Affidavit Trying to Prove Illness "Gloriously False"

PREPARES TO APPEAL

Contempt Charge Grew Out of Gangster's Failure to Appear in Court

Chicago—(P)—Al Capone was convicted of contempt in federal court today and sentenced to six months in county jail.

Judge Wilkerson in announcing his decision declared it was evident the affidavit which attempted to show Capone was ill and in bed when he was wanted by the government two years ago, was "gloriously false."

The effect of the affidavit, the judge declared, was to "hamper the administration of justice" and that "this court is not to be tampered with."

The contempt consisted of Capone's failure to appear before a federal grand jury in 1929. He sent an affidavit from his Miami, Fla., home that he was too ill to visit a trip to Chicago. A doctor's certificate was also sent in. Later, the federal attorney charged, it was learned that Capone had been at the races and had made a trip to Bermuda.

Capone appeared surprised at the sudden decision; he had apparently expected the judge to take the case under advisement. As the judge began to summarize the case and it became evident that he was about to announce his decision, the gangster sat at his chair, at the counsel table, stooped, chewing gum and listened intently.

When Judge Wilkerson began to tear down a defense evidence bit by bit, Capone looked dejected. The gangster had had a long talk with reporters was gone and after the decision he spoke to no one. He wore another new suit today, this time a brown one with tie and silk handkerchief to match.

Judge Wilkerson held that the fact that Capone finally appeared before the grand jury and was questioned made no difference as far as his contemptuous act was concerned. The point was, he said, that the defendant had caused to be sent up to Chicago an affidavit which he knew to be false in an attempt to influence the court.

Capone's attorney, Benjamin Epstein, had argued in his final plea that Capone did not read the affidavit signed by his doctor. Epstein said it was admitted that the affidavit was carelessly drawn.

Judge Wilkerson interrupted to say, "it certainly was carelessly drawn. It was trifling with the court."

SIX NEGROES EXECUTED IN SOUTH AS SLAYERS

Columbia, S. C.—(P)—Six Negroes were electrocuted in the South Carolina penitentiary early today for the murder of two Lexington white men. They went to their deaths calmly and with prayers on their lips.

Almost two hours were required for the executions, each of which was watched by 16 persons in addition to newspapermen, physicians and penitentiary officials.

Tillman Poozer died as the confessed murderer of C. D. Mills, Cayce night watchman. The motive was robbery.

The other five, Robert "Greasy" Eldridge, Lindsey Cantrell, alias John Ackwith, James "Snow" Hickman, George Bird and Ernest "Tee" Thompson were convicted of murder of B. W. Hendrix, Lexington merchant, who was shot in an attempted holdup. Four of the five men were arrested in Bluefield, W. Va., where they had fled.

Prosecutor And Judge Clash At "Bridge Murder" Trial

THIRD DEGREE QUIZ METHODS HIT BY COURT

State Attorney Threatens to Impeach Testimony of Witness

Kansas City — (AP) — Threats of James E. Page, prosecuting attorney, to impeach the testimony of a state witness heightened interest today in the trial of Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, 35, accused of slaying her husband after a bridge game quarrel.

Judge Ralph S. Latschaw, presiding, denounced the prosecutor for "legal third degree methods" in a sharp exchange over the testimony of Charles M. Hoffman yesterday that the widow wept as she lay beside her husband's body and "wanted to use the gun on herself."

"Suppose this witness is a perjurer," the judge demanded. "Where is your case?" Hoffman and his wife were players in the bridge game that preceded the fatal shooting of John G. Bennett, wealthy representative of a perfume company, Sept. 29, 1929.

Page, denied an opportunity to "refresh the memory of this witness," launched an attack which drew fire from the judge as well as defense counsel, James A. Reed, former United States senator, and J. Francis O'Sullivan.

With the jury excluded, he quoted from a record purporting to be Hoffman's statements at the preliminary hearing—"she brushed me aside and opened fire."

"In every particular," the prosecutor asserted, "this witness has changed his testimony. Unless I am allowed to compare these stories before a jury I may as well dismiss the case."

Mrs. Bennett, unrouged and pale, sat intent at the counsel table, nervously biting her lips. "The prosecutor," Reed observed, "threatens to make another case out of this one." He demanded that Page be stopped from "bulldozing and intimidating" Hoffman.

Judge Latschaw turned to the prosecutor. "You are threatening the witness," he said. However, Judge Latschaw announced

GENIESSE NAMED DISTRICT CHIEF

Appleton Man Succeeds C. J. Thomas as Wisconsin Telephone Co. Official

Ralph Geniesse, 490 S. Locust-st., has been named district wire chief of the Wisconsin Telephone Co., according to announcements made Friday by F. N. Belanger, district manager. Mr. Geniesse succeeds C. J. Thomas, who last week was promoted to district plant manager in Milwaukee.

The new wire chief entered the employ of the telephone company in August, 1919, as department clerk. Between 1919 and 1923 he progressed from the positions of clerk, installer, switchboard man, and test man.

In 1923 he was appointed wire chief with headquarters at Marinette, in which capacity he served until July, 1923, when he was appointed transmission supervisor in the Appleton office.

No arrangements have been made for appointment of a successor to Mr. Geniesse, according to Mr. Belanger.

ed immediately before adjournment he would permit Page to attempt to impeach Hoffman's testimony, warning that court was committing "a fatal error in the event of conviction."

Hoffman related earlier Bennett slapped his wife after she termed him a "bum bridge player" for losing a doubled bid on four spades.

Mrs. Bennett obtained a pistol upon her husband's request, he said, when Bennett announced he was leaving on a business trip. Hoffman said he did not know in what direction the shots were fired, explaining he was "paralyzed" by shock.

SAMUEL HILL, RAIL BUILDER, DIES IN WEST

18-day Battle Against Illness Futile — Was "Friend of Kings"

Portland, Ore. — (AP) — Samuel Hill, 74, friend of royalty and internationally known railroad builder, is dead. He succumbed here last night after an 18-day fight against intestinal influenza.

His illness developed suddenly Feb. 9, while he was en route to Salem, Ore., to discuss good roads before the state legislature. Last week he underwent an operation, but he failed to rally. His son, James Nathan Hill, was called here from his home in Washington, D. C. Besides his son, Hill is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Hill, the oldest daughter of the late James J. Hill, the "empire builder."

The body will lie in state here this afternoon. Funeral services and cremation will be in Seattle. An urn, containing the ashes, will be taken to Maryhill, a lonely castle Hill had erected on Washington cliff, overlooking the Columbia river.

Hill was well known to many European rulers and statesmen. Queen Marie of Rumania, to whom he was host when she toured the United States several years ago, called him "a great builder and dreamer."

It was he who sent Samuel Lancaster, engineer, to Europe to study that the Columbia river highway might be engineered along the lines of the most beautiful continental roads. At the time of his death he was looking forward to an extension of the Pacific highway, into Alaska.

Untangled Traffic In 1916 when transportation of Russian war munitions across Siberia was hopelessly congested, Hill was called upon by the allied powers to untangle the traffic imbroglio at Vladivostok and restore order in railroad movements across Siberia and Russia to the northern front.

With years of transportation experience, Hill, in a single summer, reopened the port for the receipt of supplies and reestablished the schedule of trains to the battle front.

His services as unofficial counselor in road building and in supplying relief to the allied powers during the World war and in subsequent rehabilitation brought to him decorations of four nations. He was decorated as an Officer of the Legion of Honor (France), Commander of the Crown (Belgium), Member of the Queen's Body Guard (Rumania), and Order of the Sacred Treasure (Japan), and was likewise given a medal of thanks by France and Rumania.

Hill's efforts toward international friendship resulted in his being named honorary consul-general of Belgium for Idaho, Oregon and Washington in 1916. As the promoter of the "Peace Portal" between the United States and Canada, marking 100 years of peace, he was voted special thanks by the United States Senate and the Canadian government.

An ardent advocate of extensive good roads, Hill became president of four highway associations on the Pacific coast where his work was credited with being largely responsible for the establishment of several intersectional routes. Extending his activities in this line to other sections of the country, particularly the south, he became vice president of the American Road Builders' association in 1926.

Mr. Hill was born at Deep River, Randolph-co., N. C., May 13, 1857, the son of Nathan Branson Hill and Eliza Lenora Hill. He was graduated from Haverford college in 1878, with an A. B. and received the same degree from Harvard the next year, and later he was made LL.D. by Penn College, Iowa. Admitted to the bar in 1880, he began his career as associate counsel for the St. Paul and Northern Pacific railway and the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway, serving in that capacity from 1880 to 1888. In the latter year he married Mary Hill, daughter of James Jerome Hill, "the Empire builder," whose protegee he had been. The couple had two children.

Mr. Hill was president of the Eastern Railway of Minnesota; St. Paul Minneapolis and Manitoba railway and Montana Central Railway, part of the Great Northern system, from 1890 to 1900. He was likewise president of the Minneapolis Trust Company from 1888 to 1903.

Other business connections included: president of Minneapolis Union Railway, Seattle Gas and Electric Company, U. S. Trust Company of Seattle, Home Telephone and Telegraph Company of Portland, Ore.; director of the Great Northern Railway and Northern Steamship Company.

He was overseer of Harvard University from 1900 to 1906 and vice president of the Minneapolis Athenaeum library since 1880.

Judge Postpones Trial of Three from March 2 to March 9

Separate trials were denied this morning by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court to Stephen Nash, 23, John E. Brooks, 22, both of Chicago, and William Clausen, 28 proprietor of the Log Cabin Inn on Highway 47, who are charged with aiding in the robbery of the State bank at Freedom on Wednesday, Feb. 18.

Trials of the three had been set for Monday, but a postponement was granted to Monday, March 9, by Judge Berg on motion of the defense attorneys, who said that they had to bring witnesses here from Chicago and that these witnesses would not be available until the later date.

Theodore Kruger, 21, Chicago, already has been sentenced by Judge Berg to from 20 to 30 years in the state reformatory at Green Bay for robbing the bank. Kruger pleaded guilty. Charges against the two youths, Arthur Kruger, 17, Chicago, and Frank Goretz, 15, Chicago, have been transferred to juvenile court where settlement is pending the outcome of charges against Nash, Brooks and Clausen.

The actual robbery was committed by the three youths, according to

Two building permits were issued Thursday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. They were granted to John Boldt, 816 W. Winnebago-st., addition to residence, cost $75; and Ray Stark, 317 N. Appleton-st., garage building, cost $2,000.

Their confessions. These confessions are alleged to implicate Clausen, Nash and Brooks. It is claimed these three helped plan the robbery at Clausen's roadside and that they aided in a plan of escape for the robbers, which failed because of the vigilance and quick response of police and sheriff's forces to an alarm after the robbery. The six were captured within three hours of the robbery. All but about $100 of the $1,068 loot was recovered.

COUNTY VETS PLAN FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Also Hear Report That Posts Again Will Sell Poppies Next May

Memorial day programs, speakers and the annual poppy sale were discussed by the Outagamie-co council of the American Legion last night at Hotel Northern. The discussions were the preliminary steps to general arrangements for observance of Memorial day by all posts in the county.

Poppies will again be sold on the Saturday preceding Memorial day, the flowers being made by veterans still ill in hospitals. The proceeds will go to posts for service work and to the makers of the flowers.

The legionnaires also considered an inter-county sports program but the matter was deferred until a later meeting. The legion auxiliary's child welfare meeting at Milwaukee today and Saturday was discussed.

DRUNK IS FINED

William Dolven, Kaukauna, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty of drunkenness. He was arrested at Kaukauna last night. The complaint was made by James McFadden, assistant chief of police. Dolven was given until Monday to raise the money for the fine.

Here is an exact copy of Mr. Gustav A. Sell's letter addressed to Hopfensperger Bros. Inc. Markets, for Karl Bauernfeind. Read this letter through very thoroughly and draw your own conclusions. (You will note this letter was written on Jan. 19th, 1931)

Gentlemen:

Replying to your recent telephone inquiry for information on what kind of cattle are slaughtered for beef locally on the market the following statements from general observation will help you.

First, there is hardly any stock raised around Appleton for beef purposes. There are a very few farmers who ship in a few carloads of yearling or two year old feeders. After feeding them for some months, ship to the central markets.

Second, local slaughter for beef is a side line to the dairy industry. In other words it is mostly cows or heifers, unprofitable to keep for dairy purposes that are beefed.

Third this doesn't mean that there are all old cows or any large proportion of cows. Whenever an animal goes off on one or two quarters, becomes sterile, has complications following contagious abortion, or has been proven by testing for production as being unprofitable, she is beefed. This may happen anytime from two years of age on. Probably the average age would be between five and seven years.

Fourth, another angle of the situation on the proportion of cattle raised for dairy purposes is given in our county statistics. Out of about 56,000 head of cattle on Outagamie county farms, over 42,000 are cows and heifers two years old, used for milk. Over one half of the 14,000, maybe more, is undoubtedly dairy heifers under two years of age.

Trusting this gives you the desired information, I am

Sincerely yours,
GUSTAV A. SELL,
County Agricultural Agent

GAS:A

The above letter and letter head is a copy of Mr. Sell's original letter which is in Mr. Bauernfeind's possession.

Armour & Company's statement in The Appleton Post-Crescent on February 17th, 1931, shows that the packer pays MORE for live stock than the local butcher because they make use of all of the BY PRODUCTS which are practically a total loss to the local slaughterer.

Farmers all over the country have protected their interests by organized Marketing and Shipping Associations to better their conditions by shipping their live stock to the Meat Packing Centers.

Modern times have brought about this progress. Barn killing and local slaughter house killing is as far behind the times as is the old horse and buggy. This same progress and modern day methods give you meat for your table that is UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT INSPECTED.

NO ONE FEATURE JUSTIFIES THE PURCHASE OF ANY REFRIGERATOR. GET ALL THE FACTS, AND JUDGE ACCORDINGLY

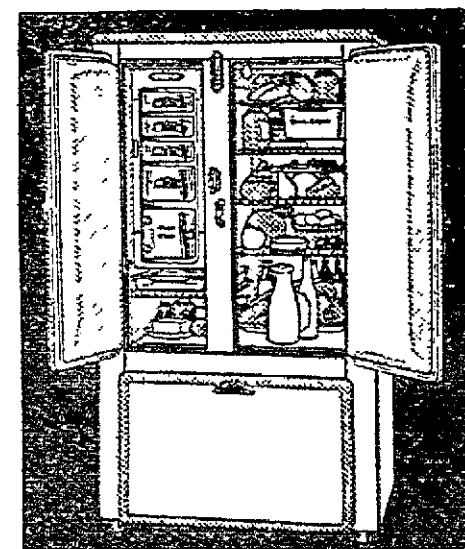

It isn't a matter of shrewdness or experience. Thoroughness is the really important thing in selecting a refrigerator. Thoroughness in deciding what one wants in a refrigerator.

Thoroughness in searching for the refrigerator that meets those wants.

That's the reason for this list of Vital Questions that we are printing . . . at the left

Consult it. Make mental notes. Take it with you when you shop for a refrigerator. Look for the answer to each question in every make. But we tell you in advance . . . only in Kelvinator will you find the complete, happy combination.

LOAD LIMIT
ORDERED ON COUNTY ROADS

7,000 Pounds Is Limit on Gravel Highways; 12,000-
on Paved Highways

An order placing a load limit on Outagamie-co highways has been issued by Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, who is acting under instructions from the highway committee. Beginning next Monday, loads on gravel roads in the county must not exceed 7,000 pounds, while loads on concrete roads in the county must not exceed 12,000 pounds.

In putting these load limits in effect, the county is cooperating with a statewide movement sponsored by the state highway commission. In a letter to the highway commission, N. P. Hayes, assistant engineer on maintenance in the state highway division office at Green Bay, points out that the spring break-up is expected to start soon and that the duty of highway commissions is to restrict loads on the highways.

Serious damage to roads was prevented last spring, Mr. Hayes pointed out, by the strict enforcement of load limits in all the counties, and the state is hoping the same will apply this year.

The county's motorcycle officers, who are on duty all winter this year, will begin Monday to check loads carried by trucks. Signs are being placed on all highway to warn truck drivers that their loads must not exceed the limits.

Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the Appleton chamber of Commerce, and president of the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, will preside at the annual association convention at Wisconsin Rapids next June 21, 22 and 23. A tentative program has already been completed by state committees, and includes a complete schedule for the three days conference. Topics of state and national importance are to be discussed by speakers and at round table discussions of the convention.

The convention will open Sunday, June 21 with registration of delegates at the Witter hotel after which

Jews to Observe
Festival of Lots
Monday, Tuesday

Mid-winter Festival Celebrated With Festivity and Joy

The celebration of Purim, or the Festival of Lots, will be ushered in by Appleton Jewish people Monday evening. There will be no services at the Reformed church, but at the Synagogue the Rev. A. Zussman will conduct services between 7 and 8 o'clock Monday evening and between 8 and 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

This mid-winter festival is a minor holiday but it is celebrated with great festivity and joy. It commemorates the victory of the Jewish people over its enemies who sought to destroy it thousands of years ago, and it is symbolic of the ultimate victory of the Jewish people over the blind forces of prejudice and hatred.

The book of Esther, the basis of this festival, explains that Artaxerxes II, after deposing his queen, took Esther, a Jewish orphan, who did not disclose her Jewish ancestry, for his wife. At that time Haman, the new prime minister of the empire, convinced the king that the Jews should be wiped out, and a general massacre of the Jewish communities was proclaimed throughout the land. The Jews of Persia and Media fasted and prayed. Finally Esther, at the instigation of her cousin, Mordecai, agreed to disclose her Jewish origin and beseech her royal spouse in behalf of her people.

At the cost of her life, she revealed her ancestry to the king and pleaded with him for the life of her people. The king granted her wish, and the Jews of Persia were saved from the hands of Haman.

CHLOROFORM USED TO FIND TASTE IN MILK

Madison—(AP)—Chloroform has provided a new, quick method of determining the amount of copper in milk, in a process developed by H. F. Gebhardt and H. H. Sommer of the University of Wisconsin dairy department.

The chloroform shows up copper by discoloration. It reveals also the proportion of copper by degree of color. Chloroform is added to other chemicals hitherto used alone and gives greater speed.

Copper usually gets into milk from plant food, the Wisconsin scientists state in a report to the American Chemical Society. In small amounts the metal is considered harmless but is often detrimental to dairy products.

Break Ground For New Postoffice Here Within Next Two Weeks

SECRETARY OF BUILDING FIRM REACHES CITY

R. W. Scott in Appleton to Make Preparations for Construction

Construction work on the new Appleton postoffice to be erected at the intersection of N. Superior and W. Washington-sts will get underway within the next two weeks, according to R. W. Scott, secretary of the Tanager Construction Co. of Albert Lea, Minn., which was recently awarded the contract for the new building.

Mr. Scott arrived in Appleton Thursday to arrange preliminary plans for construction work, including the employment of laborers and to secure materials for building.

Only Appleton workmen are to be employed, and wages will be according to the Appleton scale, Mr. Scott stated. An employment office will be opened here as soon as excavation gets underway.

Machines for digging the basement and foundation are expected here from Minnesota within the next 10 days, and excavation will get underway the day immediately after they arrive.

Stone work is expected to arrive here from Bedford, Ind., within the next five or six weeks. Other materials will be shipped or purchased in Appleton within the next two or three weeks, he stated.

JUNK ORDINANCE AGAIN REVIEWED

Measure Will Go to Council Next Week in Present Form, However

The proposed junk ordinance went on the mat for several more rounds Thursday night at a public hearing at city hall. There were objections and objections, but the ordinance will be presented in its present form to the common council for adoption or rejection next Wednesday evening.

The chief objection to the regulation is that it will automatically put out of business in six months all junk dealers located in residential districts. The ordinance specifies that dealers in residential districts may obtain a license for six months, after which period of time there will be no renewal.

There were the usual complaints about punishing all dealers in the city because one or two are causing trouble and several persons protested against the requirement that fireproof buildings be constructed to house junk in yards in the residential district.

Property owners adjoining junk yards who were present at the meeting, in between occasional shots at the prostration of the common council, argued that the presence of these junk yards in residential districts destroys the value of property because of the unsightly surroundings they provide.

About 25 persons dealers and property owners attended the meeting.

POSTPONE TRIAL OF TWO KAUKAUNA MEN

Trial of Oliver Besaw and Gordon Frank charged with larceny in connection with the looting of the Cities Service Filling station on Draper-st, Kaukauna, was postponed by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning until Monday. District Attorney Stanley A. Staudt requested the adjournment because one of the state's principal witnesses was suddenly taken ill Friday morning. A jury already has been drawn to try the case. It is alleged that Besaw and Frank stole $37-worth of candy, cigars and cigarettes from the filling station.

STATE "Y" SECRETARY HOLDS MEETING HERE

A Y. M. C. A. institute, at which association activities were rated, was held here Friday morning with Guy V. Aldrich, state secretary, Milwaukee, in charge. Members of the Appleton association employed staff attended the meeting, one of a series being held in all associations in the state.

On March 15 and 16 Mr. Aldrich will again be in Appleton to hold an association institute. Work of the Y. M. C. A. in program building for the year will be discussed.

ARMY RESERVISTS GO TO GREEN BAY MEETING

The evening's program will begin with dinner at 6:30 and will be followed by a talk by Judge George Crowns, Kewaunee, a prisoner in Germany during the war. Conference credit will be allowed for the meeting.

TWO RESERVIST GROUPS MEET HERE TONIGHT

Two reserve army officer groups will meet in Appleton tonight for group schools. Officers in the 1st Battalion of the 46th Engineers will meet at Conway hotel for dinner at 6 o'clock and will begin discussion of their problems at 7 o'clock. Infantry officers taking a company officer's course under Capt. A. P. Lagorio will meet at 7:30 at the armory.

The Rev. Alfred M. Schmitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Schmitz, 317 W. Superior-st., who was ordained to the priesthood Wednesday morning at Green Bay, will say his first Mass next Tuesday morning at St. Joseph church, Appleton. Father Schmitz was a student at St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee. The sermon at the first Mass will be preached by the Rev. Eugene Gehl, St. Francis.

FEWER STUDENTS LEAVE COLLEGE AT END OF SEMESTER

Less than half as many students left Lawrence college on the "Sore-eye Special" at the end of the first semester as were dropped because of scholastic difficulties last year, according to Olin Meade, college registrar. Many students drop out voluntarily at the end of the first semester because of financial difficulties, but the number of students who left college voluntarily this year dropped 35 from last year's figure of 62. The total enrollment of the college and conservatory shows an increase of 40 over the second semester enrollment of last year, according to Mr. Meade. The college lists show 384 students regularly enrolled either in the conservatory or in the college of liberal arts.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES IN JIMERSON CASE

Discusses Lila's Reputation for Veracity—Case to Jury Today

Buffalo, N. Y.—(P)—Dr. Arthur C. Barker of Rochester, recognized as an expert in manners and customs of North American Indians, testified for the defense today as the second trial of Lila Jimerson, Cayuga Indian woman, for the murder of Clotilde Marchand, drew to a close.

The defense rested its case last night, but reserved the right to call Dr. Barker on the stand today. His testimony was confined to Lila's reputation for veracity.

The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

The state contends that the Indian woman instigated the murder of Mrs. Marchand so that she might more easily carry on her intimacy with her husband, Henri Marchand, an artist. The defense has attempted to prove that Lila knew nothing of the murder and that other persons had at least an equally strong motive for desiring the death of the artist's wife.

VETS LOAN BILL LAW IN SPITE OF HOOVER VETO

Senate Follows House in Over-riding Presidential Objections the veto—Senator Watson of Indiana the Republican leader. The previous senate vote was 72 to 12 for the measure.

Sixteen Republicans and one Democrat voted to sustain the veto. Thirty-six Republicans refused to support Mr. Hoover's veto and joined in passing the measure.

Veteran Administrator Hines was at the White House when the senate acted. As he left, he said the bureau could make the first loan under the bill within five minutes.

At the veterans bureau some ex-soldiers were in line to apply hours before the veto.

Although General Hines has not given an official opinion on the question, it was said at his office the "accepted opinion" was that the certificates would have to be two years old before being eligible for loans, as under regulations governing loans heretofore. This would affect numbers of loans.

Word of the new law went forth quickly to the 54 regional offices of the bureau, so applications could be accepted at once.

Checks for the loans will be mailed as rapidly as possible, with the first expected to be on their way tonight or tomorrow to applicants whose requests for loans were mailed in. After the rush starts, however, checks will be issued from the bureau in twenty days of receipt of loan requests.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, ordinarily a staunch administration defender, led the friends of the bill in seeking its approval. Senator Hastings of Delaware, his ally, served as spokesman for those opposing the measure.

The two engaged in frequent caustic interchanges, which they were joined by Senators Tydings of Maryland, and Barkley of Kentucky, Democrats, who favor the bill.

The measure at issue would increase the loan value of adjusted service compensation certificates from 22 1/2 per cent to 50 per cent of their face value.

The House, meanwhile, agreed to disagree with the senate on the latter's amendments to the second deficiency bill. The senate added about $40,000,000 to the measure. It was sent to conference.

With Senator Caraway urging the measure, the senate adopted a resolution asking Secretary Hyde to refund the $20,000,000 compromise relief fund recently appropriated had not been made available to borrowers of the drought area.

President Hoover stepped into the row between the house and senate over the naval appropriations bill. He called the conferees to the White House for breakfast and under the spell of bacon and eggs an agreement was worked out.

The disagreement had involved the old question of whether naval construction should be given to naval or to private shipyards. It was decided that the naval yards get the work.

Senator Glenn gave the senate his committee documentary evidence which he said, showed Ralph S. Kelley, deposed land agent of the interior department who accused the department of maladministration of oil shale lands, was dickering for a series of newspaper articles while on sick leave. His articles were printed later in the New York World.

The house census committee killed all reapportionment legislation so far as this session is concerned. It tabled measures to increase the leadership of the house.

Hunt For Mountain Top To Suit Big Telescope's Eye

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Mt. Wilson, Cal.—(P)—Announcement of the site for the 200-inch telescope, which doubles the size of the present largest instrument, is expected soon.

The astronomical laboratory for the telescope is under construction on the campus of the California Institute of Technology, which will have charge of the great eye-piece.

Shopping around for a mountain site suitable for such a telescope involves perhaps more difficulties than making shared real estate deals or choosing a bridal trousseau.

Merely finding a high mountain, above the clouds, and with plenty of the famous clear mountain air, is useless. Although the air about a high mountain may be of jimpid perfection to the human eye, it is likely to be turbulent and interchangeable in density for a telescope.

Another obstacle of too much altitude is the great difference between day and night temperatures, causing expansion and contraction that run

Diamonds Owned By U.S. Valued At Four Billion

Washington, D. C.—Does your family own between $150 and $200 worth of diamonds?

It so it holds its average share of United States wealth in these precious stones. The most recent estimate places the value of diamonds owned in the United States at a figure exceeding four billion dollars.

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society tells of recent changes in diamond movements and of even more marked changes in methods of mining and handling the gems.

"Diamond imports fell off in 1929 along with most other imports," says the bulletin, "but even with a reduction of approximately one-third from the peak importations of the preceding year, more than half a million carats of diamonds valued at over $30,000,000 entered the country."

"One reason why diamond importations held up better than the importations of some other commodities even in a year of depression is that not all diamonds are destined to shine forth from jewelry that adorns men and women. More than half the world's production of the stones, in quantity, is used in industry, many in ways surprising to the layman.

Some form bearings for watches, chronometers, electric meters, and other accurate instruments and laboratory apparatus. Some, in which tapered holes are drilled, are used for drawing fine wire of platinum, silver, gold, and rare metals. Much of the wire used for filaments for electric and radio bulbs and other delicate apparatus is drawn through diamonds.

"Other industrial uses for diamonds are as drills for glass, porcelain, and similar hard substances; turning-tools for lathe work; engraving points; and as cutting edges for rock drilling and sawing. For industrial purposes only the less nearly perfect and less valuable stones are used. More than half of the diamonds mined find their way into industrial use; but the value of these 'working diamonds' is, of course, very much less than the value of the 'patrician diamonds,' used in jewelry."

U. S. Chief Consumer
"Africa looms large in the diamond industry. Eighty-five per cent of all diamonds produced come from that continent—about half of them from South Africa. The United States is the world's greatest diamond consuming country. Normally it absorbs nearly the equivalent of the entire South African output."

"If all the diamonds produced in the world in 1929 could have been combined in a single cube it would have been five and a half feet across each face—a crystal block as tall as the average man and weighing more than a ton and a half. If the rough stones could have been brought together and dumped into bushel baskets they would have filled two dozen of them, heaped up."

Fields Important
"In recent years a wealth of the gems has been literally scooped up from the earth in the regions of alluvial diamond deposits. Until this change in mining methods came about, the greater part of the diamonds had been mined for decades by laborious digging to great depths in the 'pipes' of extinct volcanoes."

"From came the slow work of separating the stones from earth and rock."

"From one of the old 'pipe' diamond mines near Pretoria, South Africa, opened in 1890, more than 130 million loads of blue clay have been dug, making a hole more than a thousand feet deep—a veritable man-made chasm that could swallow some of the world's largest and tallest buildings. From this vast amount of material from a single mine 30 million carats of diamonds have been extracted, valued at more than 162 million dollars."

"The outstanding diamond fields of the alluvial kinds are those discovered only a year or so ago in Namagualand in the northwestern corner of Cape Province, South Africa. The diamonds occur in the loose sands of the seashore and a considerable area is being mined by the government of South Africa. The mining consists in scooping up the sand in steam and electric shovels, loading it on to flat cars, and transporting it to a plant where the gems are sifted out. In the first year more than $2,000,000 worth of diamonds was recovered."

Shells Mark Deposits
"The average weight of the seashore diamonds is unusually high. The largest so far discovered weighed eighty-five carats. A peculiarity, about the Namagualand diamond deposits is their occurrence along with shells of a certain prehistoric oyster. This oyster shell has been a convenient mark for prospectors when a sand deposit contains the shells, diamonds are sure to be there also."

"Two theories as to the origin of the Namagualand diamonds are that they were washed down into the sea from interior mountains and covered with sand, and that they were thrown up from the bed of the sea by a volcanic upheaval ages ago."

"Diamonds have been found in all of the continents, but in none in such quantities as in Africa. Other sections of Africa besides South Africa contributing diamonds are Rhodesia, Tanganyika, Angola, Belgian Congo, and the Gold Coast. One of the earliest known sources of diamonds in the world is Brazil. In Russia and a few of the gems still are mined there."

"Next to South Africa in importance as a diamond producing region is Brazil. At one time 20,000 diamond miners were at work there but the greater richness of the African mines and the greater ease of recovering the stones in Africa, brought about a decline in the Brazilian industry. Dutch Guiana is the only other important source of diamonds in South America. In the east, Borneo, Australia and Tasmania produce some diamonds, and a few have been discovered in Siberia. In Europe a negligible quantity of diamonds has been found, chiefly in the Ural Mountains of Russia and in Lapland. Small stones have come to light in alluvial deposits in various parts of the United States, but no fields of importance have been discovered in North America."

ADVERTISING CLUB TO BACK SPRING OPENING

The support of the Appleton Advertising club in the spring opening on March 12, 13 and 14 was pledged at a meeting of the club at Conway hotel Thursday noon. The group will aid the spring opening committee of the retail division in advertising and publicity, and will offer a grand prize for the best window display during the opening.

Several reports on miscounting during the opening were read. Fourteen numbers were present.

Defends Record

Long-standing controversies between former Postmaster General Harry S. New and his assistant, John H. Bartlett, were revealed when New, as shown above, appeared before the Senate postal lease investigation committee in Washington, New declared that Bartlett, who had made attacks on his record, was "obsessed with the idea that he ought to be Postmaster General."

"I am not a man who is obsessed with the idea that he ought to be Postmaster General," New declared that Bartlett, who had made attacks on his record, was "obsessed with the idea that he ought to be Postmaster General."

CAPONE SENTENCED TO SIX-MONTH TERM

uate work at Richmond, Va., testified she was called to attend Capone on Jan. 6, at his Miami home.

"How long did you remain there?" she was asked by the defense.

"About two weeks or longer."

"During that time, did Capone ever leave the house?"

"No."

"Did he ever get out of his bed?"

"No."

"Was his condition such that it would have been possible for him to attend the races on the 17th, 18th, or 19th of January?"

"No, he had a high fever."

The police were using two new words "to Zuta" as a result of Capone's visit. They were first employed by John Norton, chief of detectives, in connection with precautions taken to guard Capone during his trial.

"Nobody," said Norton, "is going to Zuta if it can help it."

The explanation was found in police records. They told how someone tried to kill Jack Zuta while he was under a police escort. The attempt failed. Then Zuta went up into Wisconsin and was slain.

Evades London Call
Capone snubbed London today. He refused to leave his seat in court to answer a transatlantic telephone call for, he said, "I don't know anyone in London."

The long distance operator had tried to reach him during the night, too, but he would not talk.

Shortly after Jacob I. Grossman, assistant U. S. district attorney, resumed the final arguments today that are calculated to prove the gang chief in contempt of court, Judge James H. Wilkinson's clerk informed Capone London wanted him on the phone.

"I don't know anyone in London and I don't want to talk to them," Capone answered.

"What shall I tell them?" the clerk asked.

"Oh, tell 'em I'm not here."

"But they know you are in court."

"Well, tell them so anyway."

Drawing Decides Places Of Candidates On Ballots

Thirty-five little slips of paper, bordered in red, were bounced up and down in a hat at noon Thursday in the city clerk's office. One by one they were withdrawn and pasted on a temporary election ballot, thus determining the position of candidates on the primary election ballots.

Richard Van Wyok takes first place on the first ward ballot, James Gerhartz first in the second ward, Cornelius Crowe in the Third ward, Fred Winkel in the Fourth, E. B. Rachow in the Fifth, and Philipp Vogt in the Sixth. Names on the ballots will appear in this order: First ward, Van Wyok, Davis, Catlin, Gieser, second ward, Gerhartz, Earle, Williams, Third ward, Crowe, Schwanke, Gmeiner, and Bauer; Fourth ward, Winkel, Callahan, Doro, McGillan; Fifth ward, Rachow, Vanderheyden and Haasman; and Sixth ward, Vogt, Wiesse, Gebheim, and Jens.

The supervisor ballots will read: First ward, Thesenhusen, Bushy; Second ward, P. H. Ryan; Third, Hesser, and T. H. Ryan; Fourth, Dick and Jacobs; Fifth, Doyle, Baumgartner, and Rademacher; and Sixth, Sievert.

In the primary election the candidate drawing first place in the Thursday noon rite will have first place on the ballots in the first precinct, but will drop to last place in the ballots in the second precinct, giving the candidate in second place first place in the latter precinct. In the general election the candidates are listed alphabetically in the first precinct and the reverse in the second.

Inspiration Point, where in the past autoists have caught their first glimpse of the valley's grandeur, will be replaced by a broad parapet at the tunnel's portal on Turtle Back dome, providing a panorama of Bridal Veil Falls and other scenic beauties.

The tunnel also will have a path for hikers who can tramp through the mass of granite instead of climbing over its rough top.

Construction of the bore is to be completed by 1932 at an estimated cost of more than $625,000. Work on the highway is already under way.

PICK GROUP TO CHANGE CHEESE PRICE STATUS

Present Rules of Exchange May Be Altered as Result of Study

Fond du Lac—Determination upon a cure for the evils allegedly existing in the present method of establishing cheese prices in Wisconsin was placed in the hands of a committee composed of dealers, cheese-makers, and producers, after about four hours of discussion at the meeting called by the department of markets and held at the armory here today.

The agency under fire at the meeting was the Plymouth cheese exchange, an organization which sets the price of cheese each week at Plymouth, and through its activities these influences prices of that commodity in all parts of the United States and throughout the world.

Two members of the Plymouth exchange, two members of the farmers call board, also of Plymouth, two members of the Wisconsin cheesemakers association, and seven farmers, two of them to be selected from the National cheese producers federation, will make up the committee. The five additional farmers will be chosen from the membership of the Grange, the Equity, the Farm Bureau Farmers Union, and the Progressive Farmers of Wisconsin.

The committee will meet with officials of the state department of agriculture and markets, and representatives of the college of agriculture, either to recommend changes in the rules of the Plymouth exchange, and its operation under revised conditions, or to set up an entirely new price-fixing mechanism for the state.

The resolution for creation of such a committee was presented at the opening of the afternoon session, and was discussed for about two hours before its final adoption. The original proposal was to have the number of farmers or producers on the committee equal that of the representative of other groups, but this proposal was amended to give the farmers a majority, and the amended motion was unanimously carried.

Horace Davis, president of the Davis Cheese company, Plymouth, and president of the Plymouth exchange, was the first speaker at the afternoon session, and after taking exception to some of the marks regarding the exchange made earlier in the day, assured the assemblage his desire, and that of his associates in the exchange, to cooperate in the further study of conditions, and their willingness to be represented on the committee.

Dian't Set U. S. Price
In his talk Mr. Davis said that the Plymouth exchange did not make the price for the nation, and that it assumed responsibility only for the actual sales on the board.

"If buyers or sellers in the state or in the nation wish to base the prices at which they buy or sell on the prices at which cheese is bought is their own affair," he said.

Two tiffs between Charles L. Hill, of the department of agriculture and members of the audience, marked the afternoon meeting.
One of them followed Mr. Davis' talk when Joseph Russell, a producer from the southern part of the state, demanded to know which of the two contentions was correct—that of the Plymouth exchange, that its operations were above board and that it did not fix prices, or that of the department of markets which, in its report, labelled the exchange as a "farce." Turning to Davis, he asked, "What is the truth of this matter; is your exchange a fake, or is the report of the department wrong?" Mr. Davis said he believed the department's report was not true.

"Then these fellows are liars?" Mr. Russell demanded. There was a protest, and then Russell addressed himself to Hill, inquiring whether the chairman considered Mr. Davis' insinuation an insult. The chairman quieted the laughter which had arisen during the incident, and the tiff ended, but not until Mr. Russell had expressed the opinion that the state department was "passing the buck" to the farmers in the appointment of the committee.

Chairman Loses Point
The quiet of the session was disturbed again when Anton Holly former assemblyman now affiliated with the Progressive Farmers of Wisconsin was delivering an address on farming conditions in general and the economic situation as it relates to dairying. Mr. Hill requested the speaker to confine himself to remarks relative to the motion before the house, that the committee's formation, but the entire audience set up a clamor and demanded that Holly be permitted to continue. He carried on his talk, the chairman retorting. Mr. Holly was a prominent figure throughout the meeting, speaking several times at both the morning and afternoon sessions.

A. W. Armstrong, Neenah, said that he believed farmers and cheesemakers were as much responsible for conditions as they have existed as was the Plymouth exchange, and further said he believed the old hand butter churn of grandmother's time. He lamented the fact that a small group of men were able to set prices for the sale of cheese, and quoted figures showing that a profit to the producer and manufacturer was impossible under the present scale of prices.

Frank Flynn, president of the Wisconsin Cheesemakers' association, expressed the willingness of that organization to cooperate in an effort to solve the problems now confronting the industry. He would like to see he said, a body which would be able to fix the price at which cheese is to be bought and sold for three weeks or a month, instead of being now pressed each week.

TAXES UNPAID BY SATURDAY TO DRAW 2 PER CENT PENALTY

After Saturday noon all unpaid city taxes will draw a penalty of 2 per cent. The tax receipts will be kept in the city treasurer's office until about the middle of the month, after which they will be turned over to the county treasurer for collection. Once in the hands of the county treasurer a one per cent a month fee from January on will be charged in addition to the two per cent penalty. Thus unpaid taxes will cost five per cent more in March, six per cent more in April, and so on.

On Monday all unpaid dog licenses and personal property taxes will be referred to the chief of police for collection.

F. B. Buchman, city treasurer will pay the state tax, amounting to approximately $50,000, to the county treasurer on Monday.

THE MOVIE MODE

London—Instead of famous Parisian designers furnishing the prevailing fashions now, movies are influencing the dress of modern women, according to London stylists. It is estimated that 70 per cent of the world's cinema audiences are women, all of whom are fashion conscious and who pattern their dresses after those of their favorite movie stars.

amounting to 5 cents per pound in a single week, was a factor in the slump suffered by the industry.

No date was set for a meeting of the committee, and appointments are still to be made by the various organizations. Following adoption of the resolution calling for the committee's creation, the meeting was devoted to a discussion of cheese grading, and the remainder of the afternoon devoted to that topic.

Sings Here Next Week

Beautiful, charming, and greatly popular, Claire Dux, noted soprano, will sing at Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday evening, concluding the season's Community Artist series. Inasmuch as Mme. Dux is considered one of the three finest sopranos known to America, booking her for Appleton is considered a fortunate circumstance by the management of the Artist series.

SAFER FLYING

Paris—A report of the Air Ministry shows that flying is growing safer in France. In 1929 there was one serious accident in every 325, 613 miles flown in commercial aviation. In 1928 there was one accident for every 197,096 miles. It is expected that 1930 figures will show a further decrease.

CLAIRE DUX WILL CONCLUDE ARTIST SERIES PROGRAM

Noted Soprano Appears Here Next Tuesday Night at Chapel

Claire Dux, famed soprano, will conclude the Community Artist Series program for the year with a concert at Memorial chapel Tuesday evening. Miss Dux, one of the music world's most charming artists, is considered the outstanding number on the winter's schedule.

Claire Dux was born and brought up in Poland. She was a very active person, always busy with rough, exciting, outdoor games. She used to push her thick, curly hair under a cap so that she would not look like a girl, and then ride horseback, play tennis, row, skate, swim. She could never find time to play with dolls, to learn to cook, but she found time to study music, which she loved above everything else. When she was 12 years old she wrote in her diary, in a very square, determined hand, "I want to be a great singer and the country of my dreams is America."

But before she came to America she had had a wealth of valuable experience. Her first important professional appearances were in Cologne. Then she went to Berlin and sang there eight seasons with the Royal Opera. For three seasons after she sang with the Royal Opera in Stockholm, was a guest at many important opera houses, at La Scala, at Covent Garden, at the Paris Opera. Her first American appearances were with the Chicago opera, where she sang for three seasons. Since then she has sung in opera in California, and has given recitals in

STREET CLEANERS ARE GIVEN JOBS—AND IT'S FEBRUARY

For the first time in the history of Appleton, February has provided jobs for street cleaners. Although there was a mild winter such as the present one in 1882, Appleton probably did not have paved streets.

Theodore Albrecht, street commissioner, hired 10 men yesterday to remove accumulated cinders and sand from the thoroughfares, so the spring rains will not drain them into the sewers. The cinders and sand are the residue of the methods used by the street department during the winter to protect drivers against slippery streets.

BRITISH QUEEN BREAKS ABOUT WEDDING GIFTS

London (AP)—Queen Mary has broken her rule about wedding presents.

Usually brides in the court receive from the queen a piece of jewelry set with the royal cipher. But to the Hon. Imogene Grenfell, who yesterday married Viscount Gage, a captain of the Coldstream guards, she gave a beautiful dressing case.

The bag was small, in a handbag design, of green crushed Morocco leather. The top is nearly covered by a circular plaque of white jade in a delicate pattern. Bottles and other fittings are done in a soft green enamel to match the leather.

Lady Gage is the younger daughter of Lord and Lady Desborough, who for many years has been a lady-in-waiting to the queen.

The marriage was a simple affair, at Taplow court in Buckinghamshire, her father's home.

TOO LATE!

A few days before his execution Glenn Dague went back to the Bible. When all hope of clemency or reprieve was over, when the time for shamming was past, he said he found comfort in the language of the ages. Dague had heard his lawyer sob, "This man never had a chance," a cry in one form or another that has reverberated down the corridors of time ever since the beginning of things. In fact Dague had lived across the street from a school and through the action of his mother received the blessings of a sober and restraining religious training. And he was married and had children.

In truth, practically all crime is caused by a wolfish selfishness. Dague wanted to eat someone else's bread, wanted someone else to lift his share of the burden of production. He wanted some other man's woman. He got "Iron Irene" with whom to go joy-riding while his own wife took care of his children.

In truth again, he wanted but the bubbles on the champagne of life. Bubbles sparkle and burst but are empty. He tired of his family life, its cares and weights. He heard the discordant cries of his children. He saw the shabby form of his wife, unkempt of hair, unroughed of lip, with too much work to do. Kindness might have suggested relieving her of some of the physical burden which he was so much better able to handle. Dague saw nothing of holy word in his family when it was all about him. One needs no Del Sarto's painting of the Holy Family to see in fact every element of holiness in family life. Dague's eyes were dull to the blessed picture of motherhood soothing a youngster's spirits, wiping the stained tear of its tears away, mending its torn garments, healing its wounds, tending its fevers. He overlooked in that mother's weariness the godliness that was there though no artist, however masterful, could paint it.

Dague saw in the kitchen nothing but drudgery when he might have heard in the boiling and stewing of the preparation of meals and the clattering of its dishes a symphony of home beside which a mere mechanical orchestration is meaningless.

And now the day before that terrible one of his execution has arrived. The open Bible is before him. He knows escape is impossible. Tomorrow is about to come. He cannot twist. Willy excuses are worse than vain. Relatives, lawyers, promises amount to less than naught. The terrible day can be held back no longer. Dague reads: "The Lord is my Shepherd—" The words burn deep into his soul. He had read them before and heard them read many times but only as one hears or repeats a foreign language. And now what indescribable depths of meaning he saw in them! But too late. Much too late.

Dague read: "Blessed are the pure of heart, blessed are the merciful—" When had he been pure of heart? To whom had he been merciful? To the woman he married? The children God entrusted to his care? The hardworking people he robbed? The officer he shot? It was time for Dague to pay. The day of reckoning always comes and with him it was at hand. Dague saw the stark, the utter truth in what he read. Why had he not seen it before? Give him another chance! One more opportunity! The clock is ticking the minutes away. Everything is too late now. What can be more terrible in a man's life than the words, "too late!"

Dague now faces the cold and brutal machinery of death. No use to plead with that. Words, cries, tears are wasted there. He hears a voice at his side, "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil—" His face is ghastly now. The last minute has come. No more pleading or whining, no more shouldering onto others the grave and sober responsibilities of life. The machine has neither heart nor soul but only the hard energy to kill. It is as cruel and remorseless as was Dague to that ruddy-faced officer who was murdered while honestly and properly performing his duty.

Duty—that is another odd word. As they bound his hands and legs in the chair the word continued to run through his head—duty, duty. When had he ever thought he had a duty to anyone, least of all to his Maker?

The final moment has come. The terrible day is here and has gone. As the world whirls about him and universes seem to clash, Dague pays the penalty, a penalty for selfishness, the parent of most crime.

IN THE CONSTITUTION

Judge Clark's decision that we had no Eighteenth amendment because the same was approved by state legislatures instead of constitutional conventions in each state, failed to find approval with a single member of the United States supreme court. While the court rules in favor of the validity of the amendment upon the ground that the language of the constitution in that regard was plain enough, it admits that "great weight" has been given to the fact that all amendments for over a hundred years were adopted in the same manner, thus again recognizing that for a government to follow a certain interpretation for generations makes that course an accepted manner of procedure.

Using a constitutional convention instead of the legislature in each state to pass upon the advisability of amending the constitution has certain clear and plain advantages that can hardly be disputed. The proposed amendment would then be dealt with singly and upon its merits, unaffected by any other issue, a procedure that cannot prevail in respect to the election of the members of the legislature.

And yet the Norris proposal now before congress to amend the constitution by putting a newly elected congress in power in January instead of March follows the ancient method instead of accepting the obviously better plan, showing again "how use doth breed a habit in a man."

'A SOURCE OF CORRUPTION'

The revelations currently made concerning corruption in New York's police vice squad carry a note of warning for the police of other cities.

In the main, the corruption disclosed in New York centers about abuse of the "stool pigeon" or paid informer. These gentry, originally pressed into service as unofficial assistants to the police, became the focal points of a network of graft and crookedness that is appalling to contemplate.

What makes this a useful object lesson for other cities is the fact that this development is inherent in the "stool pigeon" system. Every police department uses informers. Generally it works fairly well. But it is always open to abuses. It is always apt to develop corruption and extortion. The best police department is the one that uses the "stool pigeon" as little as possible.

THE EXPENSE OF A WAR

If the added drain on the federal treasury imposed by the pending soldier's loan bill looks rather onerous—

And it makes you uneasy to reflect that another soldier's compensation bill, extremely expensive, will probably be necessary in another decade or so—

You might console yourself by the reflection that all of this, after all, is just part of the price we pay for the privilege of going to war.

Whether the current bill is a raid on the treasury or a matter of simple justice, it is a war expenditure; the kind of expenditure that any war makes inevitable. That would be a good thing to keep in mind the next time this nation ponders the advisability of getting into an armed conflict with some other nation. It is a costly business.

Today's Anniversary

LONGFELLOW'S BIRTH
On Feb. 27, 1807, Henry W. Longfellow, American poet, was born at Portland, Me. After graduating from Bowdoin College at 18, in the same class with Nathaniel Hawthorne, Longfellow was at once appointed professor of modern languages at his alma mater. He resigned in 1835 to study and travel in Europe. On his return he accepted at Harvard a post similar to that he had at Bowdoin. Longfellow's poetic gifts made him at 44 perhaps the most widely read poet in America. Poems which helped establish his fame were: "Evangeline," "The Courtship of Miles Standish," "Excelsior," "The Wreck of the Hesperus," "Paul Revere's Ride" and "The Village Blacksmith." His fame as a poet rests on two points. First, he gave expression to the commonplace emotions of American civilization with charm and simplicity; second, he did much to spread European culture in this country.

THEY SAY that Al Capone wasn't sick at all... that when he refused to come north to appear at a trial, because of his delicate health, he was only kidding... we understand that Al went up in airplanes... was enjoying himself no end... why Al, what a fellow YOU turned out to be... why thought you weren't afraid of anything—particularly a government... wotta disillusionment YOU are to the youth of this nation... why this makes you look like you were a kid who played sick so he wouldn't have to go to school... tsk, tsk...

Arkansas and Nevada are engaging in a little cutthroat competition for the divorce business. Arkansas is after a 90 day residence requirement which is equal to the law which has made Reno so well known. Now Nevada is cutting it to six weeks.

At that rate, in a few years, you'll be able to get a divorce without ever getting off the train.

Now that the Supreme Court of the United States has assured us that the 18th amendment really IS a law, we feel much relieved. Golly, supposing that after all this excitement it came to light that our citizens hadn't been violating a law after all.

We certainly just missed something.

Even Will Rogers can't exactly understand this nation of ours. He says that George Washington would see 'em today handing out rations in peace time that would remind him of Valley Forge. In fact, Will thinks, the old system is reversed. We get fat in war times and thin during peace.

The new American society is crawling through wire fences. Yep, down near Agua Caliente, Mexico, when Americans want to get in—after six p. m.—and the gate is locked, the favorite stunt is to crawl through the wires, right at the boundary line. And if there aren't any holes, "a small boy makes himself some spending money by wielding a pair of pliers."

In the British National anthem "God Save the King" (which our school kids know as "My Country 'Tis of Thee") are some words which rather quite a few Englishmen. They go (referring to countries foreign-to-England):

"Confound their politics,
"frustrate their knavish tricks..."
tum, tum, de dum etc.

Anyway, the words still stay, according to English custom. But they'll be sorry.

Just wait until Mussolini takes time to read up on English music. There'll be more apologies. And if the English are still serious about their song, mebbe a war.

Just Folks

PREJUDICE

He carried it around for years.
As though it were a thing to keep;
At night before he went to sleep
He'd take the old grudge by the ears
And shake it in his memory
That it was still alive to see.

A little wrong done long ago
By one who now could be his friend,
Yet he continued to the end
Remembering that trivial blow
And waiting for a chance to strike
Again at him he didn't like.

His judgment narrowed to the core,
When others praised he turned aside
And to his foe all words were
The little wrong of years before
Still lived with him and seemed to be
A wall past which he couldn't see.

When prejudice lays hold of man
It cripples reason, narrows sight,
And kills the subtle sense of right.
They only stand four-square who can
Forget small injuries and forgive
And for the present purpose live.

Personal Health Talks

YOU CAN'T KEEP A CHRONIC RHEUMATIC DOWN

In my time I suppose I have pre-disposed a lot of old rheumatics to apoplexy by my contemptible habit of asserting that there is no such thing as rheumatism and anyway it has nothing to do with the weather. If there's anything that raises the blood pressure of these obstinate and unreasonable invalids with rheumatism it is a low, unsympathetic sneer from the likes of me about their weather prognostications. I learned long ago to leave that subject alone unless I am in very fine fettle indeed.

Perhaps here and there there is still grumbling, who knows? An otherwise candid and obdurate citizen who is subject to chronic rheumatism in spite of my earnest efforts and who can recall references made in this column to the work of Dr. Ralph Pemberton on arthritis. Dr. Pemberton is "one of the foremost students and authorities on arthritis. And painful to it he to my well known self esteem to admit it, this impressive expert has observed that arthritis patients have lower surface temperatures than do normal persons (temperatures measured by means of electric thermocouple), and he tells us this is due to decreased blood flow in the tissues concerned. If the doctor were just drawing on his imagination for his ideas, as do the erudite medical theorists who still try to explain how folks take cold from exposure, one might give him a bit of an argument. But, darn it all, he is not imaginative at all; he is forbiddingly scientific—he studies the tissues involved and finds the capillary bed or network comparatively immobile, the channels constricted, and the movement of the blood thru them less responsive to modifications imposed by changes in the environment.

When a doctor comes at you like that, you just can't think of a suitable rejoinder to his comment that this peculiar impairment in the capillary circulation in the affected tissues probably explains the sensitiveness of arthritic patients to changes of weather and changes of clothing and all that.

Oh, well, have it your own way. Dr. Pemberton draws no disagreeable inferences from this scientific observation, except to suggest that it apparently accounts for the lowered metabolic rate shown by most arthritic patients. It is in the capillary bed or field that metabolism is chiefly concerned. But the distinguished arthritis specialist does suggest that the competent physician must regard arthritis as something more complicated than a mere focal infection; having found and disposed of the primary focus of infection the physician has done only part of his work; he can promote the patient's comfort or perhaps complete recovery materially by other therapeutic measures, such as massage, baking, diathermy, sun baths or ultraviolet light, hydrotherapy.

Here I would add to my apology to our arthritis readers my own suggestion that too much dodging of weather, too much coddling, in my opinion tends to decrease the capillary circulation and lower the metabolism in the earlier stages of arthritis.

I do not believe, and I don't think Dr. Pemberton believes, that exposure to cold, wet and the like is a cause of arthritis, however much discomfort such exposure may give one with the disease.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

How Doctors Grow

Your medical biography is painfully obvious. When you condemn a man who does the wonderful things—does on the ground that he is not an old school doctor you only make yourself small in the opinion of people who understand... (A. L. C.)

Ans.—I condemn the quack because he is a quack. I should have no more respect for him if he pretended to be an "old school doctor," as you put it. And I do not believe an honest, intelligent physician can ever acknowledge allegiance to any particular "school" or "path." This humbug who has evidently gained your confidence is not a legitimate doctor of any school or brand of classification. He just takes on that valuable commercial title as a gentle-

Acquired Defects Not Heritable

I am an expectant mother. My husband had infantile paralysis at the age of 6 years and it left him with a crippled left foot and leg. I am worried so that I can't sleep, for fear my baby will be born with a foot and leg like that... (Mrs. J. C. K.)

Answer—That is foolish. There is no tendency for an acquired defect to be transmitted to children. Had your husband been born with the defect, then you might have reasonable cause for some anxiety. But I assure you the baby is no more likely to have any such defect than is your husband had a permanent wave 10 years ago.

Circumcision

Does circumcision have any effect on moral conduct? (H. E. R.)
Answer—No. It is advisable only when necessary for cleanliness or when in the newborn there is interference with urination. In some instances this is advisable for young men, and it may be done under local anesthesia in the doctor's office. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE street car covered lots of ground. In fact it traveled all around Fretria. The Tynmites thought the city very nice. And when the car came to a stop, we Clowny said, "I hate to hop off to the ground. I'd like to make this same street car ride twice."

"Not now," replied the Travel Man. "Some other day, perhaps, you can, but now we want to find a place to eat a bite of lunch. An open-air cafe is near. Let's try it while we're staring here." The Tynmites were hungry, so they favored this fine lunch.

About a half hour later they decided they would like to play around out in the open air. Said one, "Where can we go?" The Travel Man then scratched his head and, in a moment more, he said, "Just follow me. We'll visit at a good spot that I know." They hiked along a narrow street and smiled at natives they would meet. Soon Coppy cried, "Oh, look ahead! We're coming to a park. I hope they have some swings, 'cause I would like to swing up to the sky." And then the Travel Man stopped short and to the north he said, "Hark!"

A real loud snorting filled the air and Scooty cried, "Look over there. An elephant is calling us. I'll bet he's hungry, too." They ran to where the elephant was and he seemed mighty pleased, because the Tynmites started feeding him, a kindly thing to do.

They'd purchased peanuts at a store and now they got a mighty roar just watching Mister Elephant reach out and grab them quick. His lumber trunk swung to and fro. How he could make the peanuts go. "The way he grabs them," Clowny cried, "is quite a clever trick."

(The elephant plays a mean trick on Clowny in the next story.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Park avenue, up where the railroad appears, now harbors a pushed, heaver.

A bit of the ghetto transplanted, it makes a curious splurge of foreign color on the avenue of luxury. Driving northward past the apartments of wealth, one encounters it suddenly under the railroad tracks, where they rise on tall stilts out of the pavement. Overhead the commuting trains rumble by.

Suddenly five blocks of merchandise of every sort appear in the jumbled array of an oriental market. Vegetables, fish, and silk underwear are spread in rows together. Fat housewives of the nearby tenements jostle each other over carts of eggs, chinaware, shawls, bolts of cloth, spools of ribbon, shoes and trinkets.

The garlic sellers hawk their pungent roots that are hung on strings and twined like necklaces around their bodies. The pretzel vendors stand behind baby carriages full of tarts, making one think of simple Simon the pleaser. Old men with patriarchal beards are on hand with large paper bags for shoppers who failed to bring their baskets.

Another new and curious market place is down on the Bowery. The items offered by groups of men who have the appearance of down and outers are the most useless-looking goods one can imagine.

A lonely cocktail glass, the handle of a discarded safety razor, a pair of shoes sadly in need of patching, the corpses of watches—at two for a quarter—are typical of the junk-like stuff spread out on squares of newspapers along the curb.

Bookish Broadway

Broadway boasts of its own literati. The street of actors, racketeers and night clubs also has its favorite authors.

There's Roy L. McCordell, a newspaper humorist, who has an office on Broadway.

And Gene Fowler, once a managing editor but now a novelist in increasing note, is a Broadway figure.

Owen Davis, the playwright, puts out his autobiography. Immediately Jimmy Durante, the incomparably mad comic, writes about night clubs.

Hot Stuff
From the output of Broadway's literati, one presumes that the people of the all-night way prefer sex in their reading as in their nocturnal diversion.

Patting tales of girls who love too well and boys who are hellions on sight are the Broadway staple. A sample is Antonette Spitzer's "Life Comes to Judith," about a newspaper girl who wants a baby.

Ben Hecht and Charles McArthur, collaborating dramatists, are among the more celebrated favorites of Times Square.

Now and then the humorists pop out to produce such published gangsters as Joe Cook, Groucho Marx and Eddie Cantor. McCordell's "My Uncle Oswald" is a novel of gags as broad as a burlesque show.

And finally there is Broadway's contribution of its own characters, often thinly masked, if not named outright, in the gossip fiction of momentary currency. That, too, accounts for much of Broadway's reading.

FOR A CLEAN COUNTY

Editor Post-Crescent: It seems the right time for every true citizen of our county to express his views on roadhouses. It will soon be election time and if there be any member of our county board who would stoop so low as to uphold a roadhouse which is not conducted in a lawful manner, should be voted out.

Roadhouses seem to be breeding places for all evil. Are there men and women in our county with backbone enough to get up and fight for a clean county?

It our county officers haven't backbone enough to enforce the law of our land, it is our duty to get men in office who are men, and will at least enforce the law on roadhouses.

Dear citizens, are you going to allow the roadhouses to run our county, or are you going to run them? Mothers and fathers, if you have been sleeping at the switch, you had better wake up. It will soon be time to vote again.

Respectfully,
Citizen from Town of Maine.

CENTRAL BANKS IN EUROPE ADD TO GOLD SUPPLY

Increase in Holdings of Precious Metal Reported for Week

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—All of the central banks of Europe this week have increased their gold holdings. This is unusual for the bullion account of the bank of England has long been suffering for the benefit of that of the bank of France. Thursday both institutions showed gains.

The bank of Germany also reveals an increase due to the receipt during the week of $2,700,000 gold from Russia, which has sent $18,000,000 of the yellow metal to Berlin since the first of the year. It is expected that Germany will add still more to her gold supply out of that unknown amount still in the possession of the soviet government.

Contrary to rumors, the bank of France made no reduction in its discount rate Thursday. This stands at 2 per cent, the same as that of the federal reserve bank of New York and the bank of Switzerland. It is believed in international banking circles that the minimum level of discount rates all over the world has been reached and that the trend now is more likely to be upward than downward, although there are frequent rumors here that the New York federal reserve bank may cut its rate below the 2 per cent level.

Defense Bonds Lowered
In view of the action taken by the French ministry of finance in reducing the interest rate on French national defense bonds from 3 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent, it is not unlikely that the rumors of a reduction in the bank of France rate may have been confused with this incident which assists in easing the French money market and in modifying the spread between French and English market rates. It is also regarded here as a preliminary step in the program for refunding a portion of the French internal debt which is to take place later.

Conferences between the heads of the central banks of Europe have been held recently and an important meeting of the directors of the bank for international settlements will shortly occur in Basle when the question of granting long term credits to foreign borrowers, who have been compelled to negotiate on a short term basis, will be fully discussed.

There is yet no evidence that American bankers are ready to enter into contracts for long term foreign loans. Although the market for German issues recently has been higher, with the Young loan today at the best price on its rally from below 70, there is general indifference on the part of the investing public to any suggestion of new offerings.

The experiences in South and Central America, German and Australian dollar bonds have been one that will require a long period of time and a long term of stabilized markets.

On the other hand, there is steady rebuying of foreign dollar bonds by countries that issued them; also by the municipalities and corporations that placed them in this country. It is believed that the total of such purchases, along with maturities issues and debt reductions through sinking fund operations in the past six months, have more than offset the total of new bonds placed in this market. Another important trend is that of a renewal of foreign investment in American securities. This has been quite heavy on the part of British investors who are dissatisfied with affairs at home and have been increasing the proportion of their capital abroad. There has also been considerable buying for Swiss, Dutch and Scandinavian account and a moderate amount for the account of German and Italian investors.

It has been learned today that the banking syndicates that are to bid on a $100,000,000 issue of New York city 4 1/2 per cent bonds next week believe that they will have a broad demand for these bonds in the market.

RECIPE GIVES COFFEE ROASTER IDEA FOR PERFECTING FLAVOR

Applies Rule for Mixing Muffin Ingredients to Patented Roasting Process

Success in muffin making depends to a great extent on the care with which the batter is made. That is why most recipes state that the milk should be poured into the flour a little at a time rather than all at once. Such care prevents lumps from forming.

This rule, "a little at a time," is the basis of Controlled Roasting—a process patented and used only by Hills Bros. in roasting their coffee. By automatic control, coffee passes continuously through the roasters, a few pounds at a time. Accurately controlled heat is applied with the result that every berry is roasted evenly—to the degree that insures a rich, uniform, full-bodied flavor. The common method of roasting coffee is in bulk—just the opposite of Hills Bros. process.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh because it is packed in vacuum. By this process air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

CLERK GETS COPIES OF ELECTION BALLOTS

John E. Hantschel, county clerk, has received sample copies of ballots to be used in the judicial and referendum elections on April 7. The copies were sent out by the secretary of state to give the clerks an opportunity to secure bids. Outagamie-co residents will vote on one state supreme court justice and on municipal county judges for Outagamie-co. The referendum is on the question: Shall the County Issue Motor Vehicle Licenses?

kets of London, Paris, Amsterdam, Zurich, Stockholm and Copenhagen. It is known that foreign investors have been quite large buyers of New York city old issues during the past year. These net them a return which is considerably higher than the rate in this period of low discount rates at these centers.

Outline Systematic Methods Of Gardening

Three factors go to make up what is sometimes referred to as intensive gardening—that is, getting the most out of the soil that it can yield. These are crop rotation, crop combination, and crop succession. The first means so planning the garden that the same type of vegetable is not grown in the same soil in two succeeding seasons. It is an important matter in farming as farmers rotate their corn and small grains so that they don't grow corn on the same land year in and year out, but plant corn one year and small grain the next on the same acreage. It is also an important factor in the garden which, however, can be overcome to a great extent by extra fertilization. As a general rule, it is best not to plant root crops in the same space in successive years. Neither should sweet corn be planted in the same patch year after year. The easiest way to provide rotation of crops is to reverse the garden plan from year to year, making the east boundary vegetable the west one and so on across the patch. The rotation idea is based on the fact that each plant takes a certain amount and kind of food from the soil. A root crop takes more of certain elements than does a legume crop, such as peas and beans, and vice versa. It is therefore best to rotate each year and also in succession crops. A root crop for late growing should not follow a root crop of early maturity. For example, turnips shouldn't be planted in the ground vacated by the early radish crop. A vegetables of another type, such as string beans, would be likely to flourish better. In any case, the ground should be given fertilizer before putting in the second crop to compensate for the plant food taken by the first crop. In a small garden where constant fertilization is a simple matter, the subject of rotation need not be given as much importance as in a larger garden where the fertilizing is done once a year. Plan the garden for rotation and succession on a rotation crop basis. It will in long run give better quality vegetables and in the present development of gardening the main idea of a home vegetable garden is to get better quality vegetables both in growth and freshness than can be bought in the market.

MUSIC for the Holy Name rally which will be held in Appleton May 31 has been selected by Pro. A. J. Thelms, director, and rehearsals will begin about March 30.

A large male choir composed of 150 voices taken from St. Mary, St. Joseph, Sacred Heart, and St. Theresa churches, as well as from neighboring churches of Menasha, Kimberly, Little Chute, Kaukauna, and Oshkosh, will sing at the field Mass which will be held at Pierce park. Two choirs from Two Rivers will also assist.

The choir members from neighboring churches will meet with the local groups for rehearsals at St. Joseph hall, and those from Two Rivers and Oshkosh will practice the same Mass in their respective churches. One or two general rehearsals will take place in Appleton before the rally. Prof. Thelms will go to Two Rivers and Oshkosh to assist in the rehearsals occasionally.

The Mass which has been chosen to be sung at the rally is the Missa Eucharistica "Lauda Sion" composed by the Rev. H. Greundler, S. J., who wrote it on the occasion of the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago in 1926. An 18 or 20 piece orchestra will accompany the choir at the Mass.

Plans for the Lenten supper to be served Friday night at the church were made at the meeting of the group of the Shamrock, captained by Mrs. N. H. Brokaw, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. L. Clark, 533 N. Center-st. The crew will hold a food sale Saturday morning at Langstadt Electric store, Mrs. H. E. Friffin to be in charge. Fifteen members were present. There will be a business session the second Wednesday in March.

The subject of the lesson was India. The Women's Auxiliary served a luncheon before the meeting. The next meeting will be at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the church.

Hegner and John Morgan read papers on Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, respectively, at the Washington and Lincoln program given at the dinner meeting of Allouez Academy, Thursday night at Catholic home. Dr. Hegner brought out the characteristics of modesty and honesty exemplified in Lincoln.

All efforts to cast aspersions on the character of Washington, Mr. Morgan stated, will not wipe out the fact that he was the most outstanding man of his time. The speaker substantiated his statement by pointing out the many times Washington was chosen to lead his country, namely when he was made commander-in-chief of the American forces, when he was elected president of the Constitutional Congress, and later, when elected, president of the United States.

About 40 members were present at the meeting and the dinner which preceded it.

Inattention Root Traced In Children

ANGELO PATRI

"He is a good child but he doesn't pay attention to the teacher. That is the only fault she has to find with him. If he only would pay attention he would get along all right."

Why doesn't he pay attention? That is what we have to find out before we can help the child. When we say he does not pay attention we are not putting our finger on the sore spot. We are looking at a symptom of trouble. Not at the trouble itself. WHY does he not pay attention? All healthy, happy, well-graded children pay attention to their work in class and get along as well as can be expected.

Test his eyesight and his hearing. Even though you believe both to be perfect, have them tested by an expert. Look well to the cleanliness of his mouth. His teeth ought to be clean and without cavities. Bad teeth make for ill health. Test his nutrition. Test his intelligence. Examine the classroom conditions. Go over ALL of the child and ALL of his associations inside school and out.

If a child has defective vision he cannot keep up with his class. He does not see what they see. He loses interest because he does not know what is going on about him. When a child loses interest in the classroom work he cannot pay attention. We pay attention ONLY to what interests us.

Defective hearing is the cause of many a retarded child's difficulties. This is not always easy to detect. You think the child hears. He seems to hear perfectly. You ask him if he hears and he says, "Yes." But it may be that he is hard of hearing without knowing it. He does not know that he does not hear all that is said. Make certain of his hearing. Have an expert test it.

At the same time look at his nose and throat and if there is any sign of a diseased tonsil, any adenoid growth, have them removed. Healthy tonsils should be left alone. But diseased ones might better be removed at once. Any obstruction in the nose and throat lowers the child's vitality and cuts down his supply of oxygen. He needs all the fresh air he can get so this matter of adenoids and diseased tonsils is important.

How about his general health? Are his health habits established? Does he sleep well? Rest long enough? Has he sufficient play? Is his diet right? How about sex habits? Is he bathed frequently and is he always clean? Poor health will cause inattention. If you do not believe it just remember this the next time you have a headache and the children want your attention centered upon them. You will be sure of it then. Good health is for all progress. Is he up to grade or is he below grade? It is highly important that he be graded right. And about the teacher. Is she interested? Does she care whether the boy recites well or ill? How good an audience does she provide for good classroom work? Encouragement, public approval, are fuel to the fire of a child's ambition. Find the cause of the inattention

Stir in one well-beaten egg and one teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda dissolved in one breakfast cupful of milk, and add to it a little grated nutmeg.

Put one pint of flour into a basin, and work into it two table-spoonfuls of cream of tartar; add to it the other mixture, stir well, place the whole in a buttered basin or mould, and bake in a brisk oven for 45 minutes. Then turn the pudding out onto a dish, pour round or over a little sweet sauce, and serve.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CORRINNE dressed quickly and Mabeline didn't question her. She seemed to sense the imperative need that flashed in the dark eyes and the tightened red line of the curved lips.

When they were ready, Corrinnne smiled shakily.

"My car's in town. We'll have to get a taxi. I forgot about calling one." But inwardly she was wondering if they might not wait too long if they depended on it. . . .

It seemed to her that a whole eternity slipped into gray nothingness as dusk swept down the road and gold lights sparkled like shining balloons through the trees, while they waited for the cab. When it finally came she stood up wearily and gave a last glance around the room.

It was dark, and familiar. . . . and hers. Only it wasn't any more. It never would be again. She choked and Mabel turned at the queer, strangled sound. Her quick eyes seemed to awaken.

"You've had a quarrel with your husband, haven't you? And you don't want him to find you here? No wonder you wanted to get away! Listen to me, Rosalee Lyde. . . . I still think of you by that store name. . . . There isn't a man you can trust anywhere. They're all alike. You can't depend on them. I know. And stop grieving about it. . . . Get all the alimony you can."

"But you don't understand," Corrinnne answered. "I don't want alimony. And Harry's different. And it's all my fault."

"Your fault? That's what Adam told Eve. Well, your husband's turning in the drive, too, so we had better turn out."

"But it wasn't Harry that was driving in. It was Jack's long roadster and Sue was sitting close to him, frightened eyes black in her white face. She jumped out and came running."

"Corrinne! Then you're all right! We were so scared. . . ."

"But I thought that you had gone out of town on business," Corrinnne managed to say in a calmer voice. "I did." The memory of that afternoon and her pocketbook that had disappeared and reappeared came floating back to Sue. "But when I got home tonight someone had called to say that you fainted in the bank so. . . . so we hurried out here."

"Where are you going now, Corrinne?" Jack asked and at the strength and sympathy in his voice Corrinnne felt her eyes filling with tears again. Tears that she winked back quickly.

"I'm due at Sarah Slade's," she answered. "I'm all right. . . . I'd like to go back."

"Jack looked at Sue questioning-ly. Corrinne realized then that not even Jack knew that she no longer lived at home."

"I guess you're well enough to go to Sarah's but I think you ought to come home," Sue answered and her hand pressed Corrinne's understandingly.

"Mabel who had stood quietly, suddenly gave a little gasp. "Oh, carrot soup! You're Jack Thornton whom I. . . . I. . . ." she stopped in confusion, then went on. "I had a bet that I could make you take me to lunch the day I applied for work and I lost it. Well, I must say I'm meeting all the nobles today. And here comes Harry."

"NEXT: Harry's reaction. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

Gored Skirt

Here's a light navy blue flat crepe silk with long shimmering lines that youth adores. Note the pretty bodice and sleeve trim of the popular em-broidered white batiste. It is caught with tabs and is very effective.

The circular gored skirt with narrow panel at the front and at the back is decidedly modish and graceful fashion.

And into the bargain, it's simplicity itself to make it.

SINGERS FIND OLD TUNES ARE POPULAR

Jacksonville, Fla.—(P)—The Sacred Song Chorists, a group of singers selected from the city's best church soloists, have caught the ears of listeners throughout the South.

The program has been a regular Friday night feature of WJAX for the past nine months, and consists only of sacred hymns requested by listeners. Nothing but the simplest of hymns are sung, as solos, duets, male or mixed quartet numbers. All members of the group have trained voices and have been in church work for many years.

Fun mail indicates that the group has a strong following as far away as Pennsylvania and the Carolinas. The wishes of the listeners in various sections of the country do not vary a great deal, as practically all ask for the same old hymns.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

Dear Miss Vane: I have often read in your column that when a girl realizes what constitutes her chief weakness she has won half the battle and can set about improving herself at once. But I can't seem to do anything about my chief weakness because I hardly understand it myself. I lose my temper continually and I argue all the time. The minute people argue with me, and take sides against me, my temper is gone, and I am afterward ashamed of all the things I've said, while angry. I seem to find all my friends irritating, superior and sure of themselves. They are all so confident of their own opinions and very often wrong. Yet whenever I argue with them, and stick up for my own opinions they accuse me of always thinking myself right. This is rather involved, but perhaps you can untangle the problem and find out what is wrong.

JEAN

The reason why your friends seem opinionated, and irritatingly superior to you, is that you believe yourself to know just a little bit more than they do about anything and everything. Somewhere inside of yourself there is a firm rooted conviction that you are wiser than they. And it's that attitude in you which shows more clearly than your think and which causes them to engage you in constant arguments.

You fly into a temper because you have no patience with arguments from those who know so much less than you do. If it seems to you that you are indubitably right, you are very naturally irritated with the opinions of people who have no right to oppose you in anyway.

Believe me, there are many girls and boys like you Jean, and they cut a rough road for themselves to travel, because they will not back down when they know they're beaten in a fair fight, and they will not permit others to have differing ideas on any subject.

One of the best ways to cure this weakness is to sit down and have a good talk with yourself on the subject of your drawbacks. Aren't there a lot of flaws in your nature which you ignore by holding constantly in your mind the thought of how inferior all the other girls are? Aren't there a lot of things you ought to learn by keeping quiet and listening to others' opinions now and then?

If you're quite honest with yourself, you'll find that there are many subjects about which you know nothing. If you face facts

When "Boots" Is Shopping She Wears This Suit

Aren't you anxious to see how "Boots," heroine of the comic strip, "Boots and Her Buddies," is going to look in this new coat suit? If you will cut out the costume above, you'll find it fits the figure of "Boots" published the other day. The little tabs on the sleeves and skirt fold down to hold the costume in place. Color this suit, if you wish. "Boots" will have another frock tomorrow.

squarely you'll find that you're probably very often wrong because you aren't old enough and wise enough to see the other fellow's point of view.

You have probably been feeling for some time that your whole crowd was massed against you, ready to laugh at you at the slightest provocation. Well let me tell you when a girl gets such an idea in her head, it's usually because for some perfectly good reason her crowd has ceased to respect her or has come to the conclusion that she badly needs a lesson. Your temper and your big headiness may have caused you the respect of all your friends, and if you continue to complain about their attitude you will get nowhere. Do something about changing your own attitude.

If you find that another girl in the crowd is running away with herself growing opinionated, and thoroughly obstinate, don't immediately get on your high horse with a view to talking her down. Just let her go her pig headed way. She'll find out in time, even as you have, that it doesn't pay to be the spiteful of the whole bunch.

Just have the courage and the wisdom to admit your great mistakes. And keep on telling yourself how much you can learn from every human being under the sun even though you find many people whom you believe you can help with your own great wisdom. There is positively no one who can't teach you something about life, and the

KEEP BEAUTY KIT HANDY FOR QUICK MAKE-UP

BY ALICIA HART

Keeping a beauty kit right in your office desk drawer or your locker is about the biggest stimulant you can have towards keeping yourself presentable.

It is a reminder, whenever you see it. It facilitates that mid-morning or noon-time "time-out" for beauty repairing. And often, as you well know, the only reason you haven't fixed yourself up was that it was such a bother to collect things or buy them or find them.

I want to say right now it isn't necessary to spend a million dollars to have a complete beauty kit where you work. Any kind of a tin or wooden box, or even a paste-board one will do. You might, in your spare moments, cover it with attractive paper and shellac it, to make it quite a beauty itself. But that is not necessary.

For the requirement, it often is easier to buy small tubes or jars of this or that than to find something at home in which to put a small amount of your regular toiletions. But whatever way you do it, it certainly costs little, compared to the benefits.

One thing that many people overlook in equipping such a kit is a deodorant. You need that quite as much as you do cleansing cream. Another thing is a toothbrush and paste. You probably carry your make-up right in your purse so that it is not necessarily included, though if you are given to preferring loose powder compacts, do keep a little box of your favorite brand in your beauty kit for many is the time you will leave forgetting your compact supply has run out.

Last, but not least, in this beauty kit you might add a little emergency needle, thread, scissors and thumbtack equipment. Good grooming is surely a part of beauty and no one can feel in the pink of perfection who has a hole in her heel, a hem that has come out, a bow that has fallen off or a loose button.

The matter of keeping the beauty kit fully equipped is an individual standard. I know women who keep tiny vials of perfume in their desk kits and others who always have an extra pair of socks and span gloves, a clean handkerchief, and even a pair of brand new stockings. If these before-hand women get an unexpected invitation to tea or dinner, they are ready to start out looking all fixed up, without dashing around the corner to spend extra money on accessories they have at home and do not need to buy. A DINING-ROOM TRAGEDY!

TABLES spread with delicious food. . . . But of it soft, highly refined—lacking in the "bulk" and iron your body must have to keep well and strong.

This is the dining-room tragedy that occurs daily in millions of homes. No wonder most people suffer from constipation. No wonder headaches, backaches, and dull days are frequent!

Just add one delicious food to your table—and you will help correct all this suffering. Add Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in some form every day.

ALL-BRAN adds the necessary "bulk" or "roughage"—and iron—that is so often lacking in our diet today. This bulk is needed to prevent constipation—to sweep the system clean of poisonous wastes—to exercise the intestines and keep them healthy.

ALL-BRAN is delicious as a cereal with milk or cream. Sprinkle over other cereals or use in cooking.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases with each meal. At your grocer's—in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

OLD RIVALS TO PLAY FOR TWIN CITY HONORS

Neenah and Menasha Cage
Quints Ready for Traditional Battle

Menasha—Pitted against apparently hopeless odds, the Menasha high school cage squad will meet the crack Neenah high school aggregation at Butte des Morts gymnasium Friday evening. The game will be the second between the traditional rivals this season and will complete conference play for the Menasha squad.

Coach Calder's lineup, crippled by injuries and illness during the last two games, will probably be intact for Friday's battle. Clement Massey was expected to reappear in his regular position at guard and Robert Lanzner, co-captain, is slated to work in one of the forward positions.

Work in the pivot position, Calder's nemesis during the entire season, will probably be divided between Lopas, Lieb and Robinson. Co-captain Becker will appear with Massey as guard while "Zip" Assmus is the likely choice for most of the work in the remaining forward position.

Dogged determination to battle their traditional rivals to a standstill will be Menasha's greatest asset in Friday's tilt and a capable city house is expected to witness the game. The Menasha high school team, under the direction of L. E. Kraft will appear and a game between the Neenah and Menasha second teams will precede the feature attraction.

Five boxing matches by the Menasha high school boxing class will be presented as additional attractions at the game.

George Boren will box with Carl Walter; John Danie will appear against Lloyd Blount; Lester Arent against Frank Marx; Roy Malchow against Clarence Kaufert and Ronald Merkle against Richard Randall. Boxing class activities are directed by David Demaris.

A combined band of more than 125 pieces will play between halves. The full Neenah high school band of 56 pieces will accompany the team and will join with the Menasha band to play the first half of the game. The two bands will have played together under one leader.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS HOLD PEP MEETING

Menasha—A pep meeting, featured by cheers, talks, and an entertainment by the Menasha high school band, was staged by Menasha high school students in their activity period Friday morning. The meeting was held in preparation for the cage battle between the Menasha and Neenah high school quints at Butte des Morts gymnasium Friday evening. Pep talks were given by Coach Nathan Calder, assistant coach R. DuCharme, David Demaris, boxing instructor, and several members of the basketball team.

MENASHA SECOND IN DRAMATIC CONTEST

Menasha—Menasha high school was awarded second place in the sectional dramatic contest at Oconto Thursday evening. Oconto high school was given first place with their presentation of the "Valiant," Menasha second with "Riders to the Sea," and Shawano third with "The Ghost Story."

Menasha's participation in the sectional meet was earned by their win over Lomira high school in a preliminary contest, Feb. 10. Rehearsals were directed by Miss Margaret O'Neill, high school dramatic instructor.

UNREGISTERED BOOKS TAKEN FROM LIBRARY

Menasha—That a number of books have been taken from the Menasha public library during the past few days without having been registered is the belief of library authorities. A half dozen books were left at the library by unidentified parties this week and no official record of their withdrawal has been found. An investigation will be made.

TO SELECT RED CROSS CHAIRMAN AT MEETING

Menasha—A chairman of the board of directors will be named at a meeting of the Menasha Red Cross in the library auditorium Friday evening. Officials expect seven new members of the board were elected for a two year term at the membership meeting last Tuesday, but an official head could not be named at that time. After selection of the board chairman, plans for local chapter activities will be discussed.

SCHEDULE TRYOUTS FOR PLAY BY CLASS

Menasha—Tryouts for "The Patsy," the dramatic production to be presented by the Menasha high school senior class after Easter, will be held in the high school at 3:30 Monday afternoon. Miss Margaret O'Neill, high school dramatic instructor, will select the cast.

QUESTION METHODS OF LETTING WORK AT IOWA UNIVERSITY

Des Moines, Iowa—(P)—Methods by which the state board of education has awarded contracts for buildings at the University of Iowa are being considered by the legislative investigating committee.

Testimony by W. H. Gemmill, secretary of the board, is to the effect that two members usually open bids and select the contractor, with the full board approving after the awards have been made. Proceedings of the board show that J. M. Fisk, university building superintendent, frequently attended the committee meetings at which contracts were let. Attorney Dennis Kelleher yesterday sought to obtain from Gemmill Fisk's exact position in the matter.

Gemmill asserted he did not have as much power as the board members in awarding the contracts.

"As far as the records go, however, he does, doesn't he?" Kelleher asked.

"I'd have to say no," Gemmill answered.

Kelleher read from board proceedings a report that Fisk and George T. Baker, of Davenport, board president, rejected all contracts for building an addition to the men's dormitory and placed construction in charge of Fisk. This was done, the statement said, to expedite completion of the building.

"If Mr. Baker was the only member present, did Fisk have some of the authority?" questioned Kelleher.

"Only Mr. Baker could answer that," was Gemmill's reply.

Gemmill was interrogated at length concerning an explanation he made to the contractors association of Iowa regarding the difference in cost between the work as done by Fisk and the bids of private firms.

Kelleher maintained that plans for the building had been revised after the board's approval was given, but Gemmill could find no record of such a change.

"How could you make a comparison if you did not have the changed plans?" the attorney queried.

"I cannot give any explanation," Gemmill said.

BIG SURPRISE RESULTS FROM MEYER BALLOT

Large Democratic Vote Significant from Business Point of View

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington (CPA) — Most unusual was the vote whereby Eugene Meyer was confirmed by the senate as governor of the Federal Reserve board. Not only was there a surprisingly small number of votes cast against him but the fact that he received almost solid support from the Democratic side is considered significant from a business point of view.

For a long time it has been supposed that the two major parties divided on the conservative and radical basis particularly since the Democrats have joined so often the insurgent Republicans. The fact that Mr. Meyer came from the financial community in New York, where as an investment banker he made a success before he entered the government service a dozen years ago, is an indication of how much the prejudice against the business man in high office has been diminished.

Mr. Meyer's appointment was made last summer during the recess of congress and when it was submitted formally in December it was known that an effort would be made to delay action in the hope of finding some basis for rejection.

Wealth Only Argument
About the only argument made in the hearings was that Mr. Meyer was a wealthy man and came from a financial atmosphere. These points however were regarded as in his favor by most senators, because they recognize that nowadays a man of means is much more likely to be independent of outside influences than an official who some day must retire to private life to making a living and therefore may not be inclined to antagonize possible business connections of the future. As for the training in the financial world this is exactly what the bankers and financiers of the country think they are entitled to in the management of the Federal Reserve system which is composed entirely of banks. If the system were administered on a political basis membership would drop off and since membership is wholly voluntary the success of the system depends upon how its affairs are managed.

Mr. Meyer has the distinction of having served under four presidents — Woodrow Wilson, Warren Harding, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover. He came to Washington as one of the directors of the war finance corporation during the war and was instrumental in the revival of that corporation which made a record in helping agriculture that was warmly commended by both Democrats and Republicans in congress. Later on Mr. Meyer was asked to reorganize the farm loan system.

Nobody has ever served on the Federal Reserve board before who has had the training and experience parallel with that of Eugene Meyer. Not only has he in his mind the New York financial point of view, but he has spent more time on agricultural problems traveling across the country and interviewing local farm leaders than any man in government. This is one of the reasons why the senators from agricultural states voted for his confirmation and it is interesting to note that these included Senator Shipstead of Minnesota of the Farmer-Labor party.

Mr. Meyer has the advantage of knowing intimately all his colleagues on the reserve board because of his long residence in Washington. He will serve out the unexpired term of former Governor Roy Young, which means that he will have eight years more in office. The federal reserve board still has on it two of its original members, Adolph Miller of California and Charles S. Hamlin of Massachusetts, who began their service when the board started functioning 17 years ago.

TRIPP PREDICTS LOWER LAKE LEVEL GROUP WILL WIN

Declares That Evidence
Proved 15-inch Level Is Essential

Alan H. Tripp, Oshkosh, president of the Association for the Relief of High Water, yesterday expressed the opinion that federal engineers will rule out the recently established level for Lake Winnebago of 21 1/2 inches above the crest of the government dam at Menasha. Mr. Tripp said he is satisfied with the results of the hearing at Menasha Tuesday, and he said he thought the testimony brought out there clearly revealed that a lake level of 21 1/2 inches should not be permitted.

State officials, Mr. Tripp said, proved clearly at the hearing that a higher lake level will not be a factor in eliminating pollution in the lower Fox. That claim has been one of the main contentions of the cities of the lower Fox area.

"The meeting turned out exactly as I predicted," Mr. Tripp continued. "The main question was waterpower, and nothing else. Very little was said about navigation."

"Public opinion, I think, will force the hands of congress to come to our aid," he maintained, meaning that the proposal to raise the lake level will be officially ruled out.

"I am indeed surprised to think that the cities of the lower Fox would put up the arguments they did, when they know they are doing their neighbors an injury."

Mr. Tripp stated today that George E. Williams, Oshkosh attorney, who is the legal adviser for the high water association, made a splendid explanation at Menasha, to prove the legal injustice of the proposed increased lake level.

The association and the cities of Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, which are opposed to the increased lake level, will have the right to appeal further to the rivers and harbors board and to congress, in the event the war department should rule in favor of the 21 1/2 inch level.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE IS WELL ATTENDED

BY W. F. WINSEY
Angelica—Two hundred farmers and their wives attended the farmers' institute here Thursday in addition to a large group of rural school pupils. In the evening the Modern Woodmen hall where the sessions were held, was packed to overflowing.

The institute was planned by G. F. Baumeister, county agent, and conducted by him with the assistance of Walter C. Brill, a member of the state farm institute staff, and G. C. Annin, of the poultry department of the College of Agriculture.

The members of the local institute committee are: Laverne Johnson, chairman; and Fred Johnson.

The most popular numbers of the evening program were "Economic Doodle Kitchen" by the Home Economics club of Angelica; a comedy, "Wheels Versus Heels"; Jacob's Lament" by Laverne Johnson; a song by William Dotter; moving pictures by Mr. Baumeister; music by the Pulaszki band; and "How to Make Poultry a Success" by Mr. Brill.

The day program consisted of talks on "Sanitary and Feeding Methods in Rearing Poultry" by Mr. Annin; "Economic Dairy Production" and "Keeping Farm Accounts" by Mr. Brill; "Emergency Hay and Pasture Crops" by Mr. Baumeister; and moving picture by Mr. Baumeister. The ladies of the Methodist church served lunch at noon with the intention of donating the proceeds to the Red Cross.

Lack Of Storms Causes Many Wells To Dry Up

Although this section of Wisconsin lies within two major storm belts, one coming across the lower end of Lake Superior and the other from the southwest, many surface wells and streams are drying up and farmers are being forced to drill wells for watering cattle, according to Dr. Rufus M. Bagg, professor of geology at Lawrence college. Dr. Bagg is directing the drilling of a series of wells along the east shore of Lake Winnebago in an effort to insure an adequate water supply for next summer.

This district should normally have an annual fall of approximately 32 inches, Dr. Bagg said, but four years ago when the drought was first noticed only 26.39 inches were reported by the state records. In 1928 the conditions were somewhat improved but the next year the records reported a drop to 23 inches and last year state officials became alarmed when only 16.73 inches fell. The lack of big storms in this district during the past four years is probably the cause, Dr. Bagg pointed out and unless farmers are certain of their water supply they are advised to drill wells.

MAY POOL SERVICE ON RAILROAD LINES

Chicago—(AP)—The possibility of eliminating some of the trains between Chicago and the Twin Cities and between Chicago and St. Louis was being considered today by railway executives and representatives of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Executives of the roads operating trains between those points were called into a conference yesterday with commission members to discuss the possible pooling of service. No announcement was made as to the outcome of the meeting, but it was understood an attempt to reach a definite agreement would be made at a later date.

There are now 17 trains leaving Chicago every day for St. Louis and as many making the St. Louis-Chicago trip. Although there are not so many trains operating between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, there are a number of duplications in service.

Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ill., now 75 years old, has but only four presidents.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA COMPANY — MIDDLE WESTERN DIVISION

Founder's Week

1859 1931

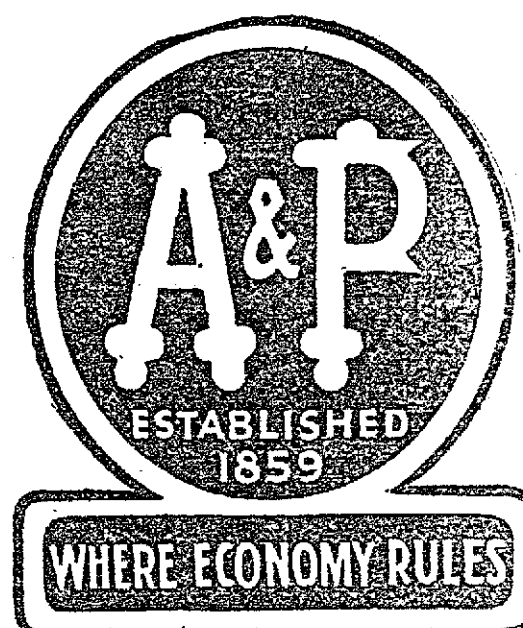

We offer these outstanding values to commemorate the founding of America's greatest food institution, The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. An opportunity to buy nationally famous foods at a real saving. Stock up!

(Personal)

High Prices are not a safe sign of high quality. Neither are low prices a sure sign of good values.

But the trade mark A&P is always a sign of the highest quality and the lowest prices.

Fresh
CREAMERY

BUTTER 2 Lbs. 59¢

Once again A&P Food Stores offer this unusual buying opportunity, Creamery Butter from Wisconsin's clean, sanitary dairies.

Butter must be palatable these days, because we use it on so many of our foods. To be palatable it must be fresh. A&P butter is rushed from the dairies to the stores and sold almost immediately—it doesn't have time to lose that fresh, flavorful goodness. Buy your butter at your A&P Food Store this week—and every week!

FORMER LEADER OF LEGION AUXILIARY TALKS HERE SUNDAY

Mrs. Adalin Wright Macauley Will Speak at Vesper Service

Mrs. Adalin Wright Macauley, past national president of the American Legion auxiliary and honorary president of the Fidae auxiliary, will speak at the Methodist twilight vesper service Sunday afternoon. Her address at the Methodist church is the only one on her schedule for Appleton. She will be a guest at a luncheon to be given by the local Legion Auxiliary on Monday, but she will not speak.

Because of her unique position and interesting experiences, her contact with the European leaders in government affairs, and her first-hand knowledge of European problems, Mrs. Macauley has a message on international relations that will interest those who take the opportunity to hear her.

In 1927 Mrs. Macauley led 7,000 Auxiliary women to France when the Legion made its peace pilgrimage, and she was the first American woman to preside over a national convention of American women held on foreign soil. On this occasion, with General Pershing, and Commander Savage, Mrs. Macauley was received officially by the president of France and other high diplomatic and military officials.

Mrs. Macauley became well known in the allied nations when she attended the Fidae congress at Bucharest, Roumania, in September, 1923. She was the first American woman elected to the high office of president of the Fidae auxiliary. The American Legion is the organization which represents the United States in Fidae.

DESCRIBES PLANS TO REBUILD MUSEUM

Louis Ehrenfeldt Delivers Address to Chemical Society Section

A description of plans for rebuilding the old Field Museum in Lincoln park, Chicago, into an industrial museum of magnificent proportions was given by Louis Ehrenfeldt, curator of chemistry at the museum of science and industry in Chicago before the Northeastern Wisconsin Section of the American Chemical society at a meeting in science hall Wednesday evening. His subject was "The Museum, an Institution for Teaching Science and Industry." It is expected that $50,000,000 worth of exhibits on the origin and development of forestry, agriculture, industry, chemistry, mechanics, geology and other phases of industry will be housed in the museum.

Mr. Ehrenfeldt told of his trip through foreign museums, and of the plans to improve some of the European institutions in the rebuilding of the Chicago one.

At the next meeting of the chemistry group, on March 9, Harrison Howe, editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry will speak.

RULES MOTHER ISN'T KIDNAPING CHILDREN.

Madison—(P)—In an opinion to District Attorney Albert L. Quilling, Menomonie, the attorney general has ruled that a mother who secretly takes her own children from the custody of her husband's sister cannot be charged with kidnaping.

Such action, taken when the children were given to the husband by a court after a divorce proceeding, is not a criminal offense, but may be considered contempt of court, and possibly criminal contempt, the attorney general said.

PROPOSE TO ABANDON SUPERIOR STREET CARS

Madison—(P)—A hearing on the proposed abandonment of the street railway system at Superior will be held in U. S. district court at Superior March 7, Herbert C. Hale, clerk of the court, announced here today. The hearing will be before Judge R. C. Baltzell, of the federal court in Indianapolis. It is under federal jurisdiction because the street railway there is engaged in interstate traffic, running between Superior and Duluth, Minn.

WATCH BABY ZEP

Washington—Aviators flying into Bolling Field here keep their eyes on a baby dirigible set up at the airport as a weather indicator. It floats from a steel mooring mast. It is built of doped fabric over a steel frame. It is 17 feet long and 5 feet in diameter. At night it is lighted from within and can be seen for miles.

How Weak Nervous Women Grow Stronger

Feel Better, Look Younger and Have Steadier Nerves

If you only knew—you rundown, anemic women—who are dragging yourself around on your "nerves"—what a wonderful increase in strength and health Tanlac will give you, you wouldn't hesitate a moment about going to your druggist and getting a big bottle of this splendid medicine.

Mrs. Dora Robillard, of Bellingham, Mass., R.F.D. 1, Box 17, says: "I had no digestion nor appetite. Sick headache laid me up in bed three days at a time. I couldn't even do light housework. Now I do all our cooking and washing in addition to the other work."

Tanlac is as free from harmful drugs as the water you drink—only Nature's own medicinal tonic herbs. Druggists know this and for the past 10 years have recommended it to men and women who need a quick "pick up" that will get them on their feet and give them a new interest in life.

So confident are the makers of Tanlac that if you are not helped by it, they will give you your money back on request.

Church Speaker

Mrs. Adalin Wright Macauley, honorary president of the Fidae auxiliary and past national president of the American Legion auxiliary, who will give an address at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. Her speech will be on some phase of international relations.

FILE REQUESTS FOR PHEASANT EGGS NOW

Madison—(P)—The state conservation commission today issued a statement which urges persons wishing pheasant eggs from the state game farm to file with applications by April 1. This will assure allotments, the commission said.

The commission said distribution of ring-neck pheasant eggs from the farm at Fish Creek for the 1931 season will number approximately 19,000. The entire output of eggs has been allotted by counties. In event a county allotment is not taken by April 1 surplus eggs will be distributed to counties which the game division of the commission considers most adaptable for ring-neck pheasants, the announcement said.

Father Mori's "History of Texas," lost for almost 150 years, has been found in the national library in Mexico City.

Wisc. Mother Knew Best

WISCONSIN mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. E. R. Esche, 987 Island Ave., Milwaukee, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my girls since babyhood. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use Fig Syrup for them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All drugstores have it.

Harbin Is World Champ In Number Of Holidays

Harbin—(P)—Harbin has more holidays than any other city in the world. It has added two more, both Soviet Lenin day on Jan. 21 was celebrated with as much ritual as though Harbin were in Moscow territory. The anniversary of the death of the first red Russians in Petrograd on Jan. 9, 1917, was observed similarly.

Every foreign shop in the city remained closed on both days. Not that all were sympathetic with Communism but with the reds the most important element in the city, consulting the only trade worth speaking of, the risk of a boycott was too great to ignore their two holidays. Harbin celebrates all Chinese holidays, Japanese holidays and other foreign holidays. Even the Fourth of July is celebrated and the king of England's birthday is observed.

Since the Chinese are observing all the holidays of the lunar calendar as well as the new ones of the solar calendar, there is hardly a week without at least one city-wide holiday observance to say nothing of the private holidays which fall every day throughout the year, on name day.

Inasmuch as every day in the Russian calendar is some saint's day and since each Russian is named after an old white Russian saint or a new Russian saint, the holidays are sometimes piled one on top of the other.

Until recently the Chinese Eastern railway observed all Chinese and all white as well as all red Russian holidays. This did not mean that the trains stopped running, but station employees and office forces drank their tea at home instead of in the office.

White Plains, N. Y.—David Cornell is now a firm believer in the saying that what you win in a poker game you lose sooner or later. That gentleman charged him $10. Cornell was loser $9.63.

DISTRICT ROTARIANS TO MEET AT KENOSHA

Kenosha—(P)—Wisconsin Rotarians will meet here May 12 and 13 for the conference of the thirteenth district of Rotary International, according to an announcement today. George S. Whyte, a past district governor, has been named chairman of the executive committee of the Kenosha club, which will direct plans for the meeting.

Claybrook Cottingham of Alexandria, La., will represent the international directorate of the organization. Among the topics to be discussed are: ethical business methods, Rotary extension, boys work, student loan funds, inter city visits and club community service, Mr. Whyte announced.

Joseph W. Jackson of Madison, present governor of the district, will preside at the conference.

Washington—That there are smart rats and rats not so intelligent is being proven by Robert Choate Tyron, National Research Council fellow. Tyron has divided rats into two divisions, the smart and the dumb, and has mated only those belonging to their own group. He reports that the intelligent rats are growing more intelligent and offspring of dumb rats are getting dumber.

$1,000 FIRE DAMAGE AT NACK RESIDENCE

Kaukauna—Fire, believed to have started from spontaneous combustion, caused damage to the extent of about $1,000 in the home of Fred Nack on Eighth-st. early Thursday afternoon. The fire was confined to the basement and the first floor of the house and was well underway before it was noticed and an alarm sent in to the fire department.

The fire is thought to have started in a bundle of rags in the basement of the home. The flames flared up to the first floor through a cold air vent and caught on a large upholstered chair. Much of the furniture and woodwork was burned and scorched, and the smoke also caused some damage.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If February 28th is your birthday, best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

The astrological indications of February 28th presage a day marked by many unexpected events. Some thing or some person will come into your life, which will exercise considerable influence on your future actions. The evening atmosphere will be benign.

A child born on this February 28th will not be handicapped by either mental or physical weaknesses. It will be ambitious, persevering, and affectionate—but not demonstrative. It will be better adapted to outside pursuits than to those of a sedentary nature.

If born on February 28th, your disposition is an unusually suspicious one, and this rather embitters your whole life. Although endowed with ability, gifted with intelligence, and appreciative of artistic effort, you are lacking in that generosity of spirit which contrivances so much to the amenities of life. A great deal of your time is lost in trying to dissect the motives that engender the acts of others, no matter whether they be friendly or otherwise.

You are fond of reading, more as a recreation than as a means to learn. In social life, your inherent reserve militates against congeniality. You, too, are caustic, and often wound where it would be more to your advantage to please. Your temper is more sulky than violent, and you know little, and practice less, of the divinity of forgiveness.

You are very conscientious in all work entrusted to your care, and are no time server. A secondary position is more suited to one of your capabilities than one where control of others is involved. You lack that personal magnetism which, every time, and all the time, gets the best from subordinates. Your love attachments will not bring you the happiness that they could, and should. You are too jealous and too exacting. Successful People Born February 28th:

1—William S. Barnard—naturalist.

2—Geraldine Farrar—prima donna.

3—Victor L. Berger—socialist.

4—Franklin Mott Gunther—Diplomatic service.

5—William Allen Orton—plant pathologist.

6—Mary Lyon—founder of Mt. Holyoke Seminary.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE TO CLOSE SEASON FRIDAY EVENING

Coach Little's Squad Meets Two Rivers in Last Conference Game

Kaukauna—The Two Rivers high school basketball game at Two Rivers Friday evening will mark the close of the season for Kaukauna high school in the Northwestern Wisconsin Interscholastic league. The local cagers have a record of two wins and five losses in the league, and one non-conference win. Kaukauna has been named as a likely entrant in the district basketball tournament at Neenah during the second week in March. If Kaukauna is selected to participate in the tourney, the first opponent probably will be New London.

Two Rivers has taken one win from the Kawe this season in which a record of four wins and two losses has been made. The win was taken from the Orange and Black team only after an overtime period was played when a tie resulted in their regular playing time. A free throw decided the winner in the extra period.

Those who will make the trip to Two Rivers will be VanLieshout, Farwell, Dix, Paschen, Sager, Koch, Luedtke, A. VanDyke, F. VanDyke, Walsh, Schwinderman, and Scholmer. The starting line-up probably will be Koch at center, Schwinderman and Paschen at forwards and Farwell and VanLieshout at guards.

BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION MAY START NEXT MONTH

Kaukauna—Construction work on the Lawest bridge is expected to begin late next month. Bids, which were advertised for beginning Thursday, can be returned until March 12. The contract is expected to be let in about a week after the bids are in. This is the final step before actual work on the bridge will begin.

COMMON COUNCIL TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Kaukauna—Common council will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the council chambers of the municipal building. There will be the allowing of bills and transaction of routine business. A study of several power bills before the legislature at Madison will be made.

BOARD TO MEET

Kaukauna—The board of education will meet at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the high school offices. Bills will be allowed and routine business transacted.

"GOOD BUSINESS- this choice of CANADIAN PACIFIC for the European tour this Summer"

Says the man who knows why this Quality Tour can sell for only $249

The choice of a travel system to carry members of the Outagamie County European Tour rested entirely upon the value of the bids presented. Every steamship line of consequence was invited to submit a bid to the tour leaders in Appleton. Out of the list — which included most of the great names in European travel — and entirely on its merits, Canadian Pacific was chosen.

A business man with a thorough understanding of travel can tell you why. He knows that Canadian Pacific owns both steamship and railroad lines. He realizes that it has direct access to Appleton through the Soo Line. Expensive railroad and sleeping car costs are cut tremendously without loss of comfort.

He knows that travel companies and transportation systems can, with a guarantee of a large number of passengers, perform near-miracles with individual prices. Under these circumstances, they can carry the Outagamie County tour for the very minimum cost. The high price of uncertainty has been removed.

Canadian Pacific is following the laws of good business, producing for you a tour which, if made alone or with a small group, would cost far more. Coupled with the realization that this is a TOUR IN THE INTERESTS OF EDUCATION, FOUNDED ON THE IDEALS OF AN EDUCATOR, the facts are plain why you can go to Europe on a quality tour for $249. Because Travel Guild smooths out and simplifies the intricacies of European travel, arranges all details, advises and directs, this firm was appointed with Canadian Pacific to economically carry out this great idea.

The price — for so great a travel value — is the lowest in the history of education. The bid by Canadian Pacific was as low or lower than the rest . . . more important, it was the most outstanding. HAD THERE BEEN A BETTER ONE, IT WOULD HAVE BEEN CHOSEN. Write to A. G. Meating, Court House, Appleton, for complete details.

Western Printers And Miller Cords Play At Armory Tonight

"SIS" BEAUPRE IS STAR WITH INVADING FIVE

Appleton Cagers Defeated Prints at Racine Early in Season

THE Miller Cords, Appleton professional basketball team will play their third game of the week here on Armory G floor at 8:30 Friday evening when they clash with the Western Printers of Racine, flashy pro caging squad from downstate.

Last Tuesday night the local aggregation tussled with the strong Green Bay Packer team and after a furious battle wriggled out with a 36 to 31 win. Thursday night they romped over the Kimberly pros 41 to 21 in a more or less one-sided battle.

Local fans who plan to witness the fracas tonight will seek Allan "Sis" Beaupre, former Wisconsin cager. They also will seek Ben Miller formerly of Northwestern basketball game and Vincent Busch, Notre Dame flash. Other members of the Racine aggregation are George Hansman, formerly of Lombard; Phil "Big Nick" Nickolas, also of Lombard; Floyd "Fat" Cashmore, one time Indiana star and Art Host, who hails from Lake Forest college.

The strong Racine team suffered defeat at the hands of the Miller Cords last December and are expecting to make their Friday invasion one of revenge. The Printers have been winning right and left in their down state tussels and are said to be "good."

There probably will be little change in the Appleton lineup tonight. The old Viking trio composed of Frank Schneller, "Zeke" Remand and Jerry Sivak will constitute the backbone of the Cords team, with "Baldy" Eggert and Schuerle lending excellent support.

The Appleton team was hitting on all five Tuesday night when they trounced the strong Bay team and needless to say they must have been doing some fast romping Thursday night down at Kimberly, judging from the score they piled up.

The preliminary game tonight will be played between the Appleton Bears and Little Chute Merchants at 7:30. Last Tuesday night the Bears welcomed the Appleton quintet from Kaukauna to the tune of a fairly one-sided score.

TUT, PETROLLE TO RESUME BATTLES

St. Paul Lightweight Beat "Express" in First Round Last Month

New York—(AP)—King Tut and Billy Petrolle, two hard-punching lightweights, renew their rivalry in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Five times these warriors have clashed before with Tut holding a slight edge over the "Fargo Express." Petrolle won the first two encounters, then Tut captured two decisions and evened the score. Petrolle went into the fifth battle with plenty of support. He had climaxed a brilliant comeback campaign by giving Jimmy McLain the worst beating of his career. But Tut, not a bit intimidated by Petrolle's sensational series of triumphs, knocked out the Fargo slugger in half a minute of the first round.

Now Billy threatens to quit the ring for good if he fails to hurdle his Minneapolis nemesis tonight. He's on the short end of the betting. Short-enders have been consistent in successful up-fightings have won since the current indoor season began. Tut, in view of his decisive triumph over Petrolle at St. Paul, naturally is the logical favorite.

Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles Negro welterweight, faces Bucky Lawless of Syracuse in the ten-round semi-final. Billy Light of St. Paul battles Eddie Ran, Polis welterweight, in the first ten.

A. L. TEAMS STRONGER PREXY BARNARD THINKS

Fort Myers, Fla.—(AP)—President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, was here today to watch the champion Philadelphia Athletics train. He said nearly all the American league clubs were stronger this year and he looked for a close pennant race.

Manager Connie Mack appeared particularly pleased yesterday with the work of Hank McDonald and Jim Deshong, rookie pitchers. McDonald is 6 feet, 4 inches tall and comes from Santa Monica, Calif. Deshong is from Harrisburg, Pa.

"Remember That Day, Babe?"

They are old acquaintances, these jolly fat fellows pictured above. They met in 1914 before either made his appearance in a major league ball park. Babe Ruth, left, pitching for Baltimore that day, held Joe McCarthy, right, Buffalo infielder, hitless in four times at the plate. Now McCarthy is commander-in-chief of the great New York Yankees, the greatest of which is the Babe. They were these friendly grins as the cameraman approached them in Boss McCarthy's headquarters in St. Petersburg.

The Yard team in the Interlake Mill bowling league remained out in front in league standings by defeating the Electricians in two games while the Machines stayed right behind them with two wins over the Office team.

The Yard keeps lost their first game with the Electricians because of a couple low scores and a 211 turned in by Schuit of the winners. The Yards copped the third game despite a 99 by J. Kenks, Leisch's 167 and Northrop's 177 overcoming the loss in pins. Leisch's 201 was instrumental in winning the third game.

Deeg pounded out a 208 in the first game and gave the Machines a win over the Office team. In the second game I. Eggert hit 223 for high game and again the Machines won. The last game went by the boards when V. Schmidt of the Office rolled 196 and the Machine kepters picked up a 109 and a 128.

Digesters turned in a couple husky games to win two from the Construction team. A 198 and 193 gave them the first game despite Hoffman's 200. The second game

Hack Wilson Confident Of Ability With The Bat

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS Copyright, 1931

CHICAGO—(CPA)—Hack Wilson, the little round man of the Chicago Cubs who led the major leagues in home runs last season, is fully confident of his ability to duplicate the performance in the 1931 campaign. Hack spoke at some length on the subject of home run seeking before starting for the Cubs training camp on Catalina Island. Holding one of the new model baseballs and inspecting its raised stitches the old Hackler remarked: "I am not kidding myself when I say I am going to sock the ball just as hard as I did last year. I think I am a bit tougher than I ever was before and by that I mean I have more power in this queer make-up of mine. My shoulder muscles are stronger than last year and I feel that I could take a bat and break it in two."

"I thing Babe Ruth is the greatest long range hitter of all time but he is going to have one swell time in trying to regain the home run honors from me. It would be foolish for me to make any cracks about breaking Ruth's record of 60 homers but a fellow never can tell. When a fellow is getting the breaks and the jump on pitchers he is bound to get more than his share of the long ones. Nothing would please me more than to hang up a new home run record and there's no harm in dreaming about it." Wilson is going to cash well on his 1930 batting achievements. The Cubs gave him a fine salary lift

VIKE TRACKSTERS BEAT FRESHMEN

Two New Records Set at Indoor Meet at Lawrence Gym Yesterday

Three new indoor track records were set up at Alexander gymnasium yesterday afternoon when the varsity defeated the freshmen in an indoor meet. The score was 22 and 21.

Bud Marston's 1930 record of 5.7 for the 45 yard low hurdles was smashed by Edwards of the frosh squad who took the timber in 5.4 seconds with Marston second. The 25 yard dash was clipped off in 3.2 seconds with Eickmeyer of the varsity first and Irwin of the frosh second.

Eickmeyer set a new 50 yard dash mark of 5.5 by besting Brusas's old record of 5.6. Irwin of the frosh team was second. Bob Roemer won the three lap race of 220 yards race in 31.4 second. He also capped the six lap race of 440 yards race in 1.76 with Ansgore second. Roemer is a member of the varsity squad.

The high jump was the third mark broken, George Fenne, a frosh going 5 feet 6 inches with Marston of the varsity second. The old mark was 5 feet 5 inches.

FINAL AMATEUR GOLF AWARD GIVEN JONES

Champion Receives Congratulatory Telegram from Hoover

Chicago—(AP)—Bobby Jones, golf-dom's greatest, today turned all of his attention to business affairs, his amateur career pretty definitely closed after receiving the James E. Sullivan memorial medal last night.

The award, a solid gold medal five inches in diameter, was handed the peerless Atlanta by Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, amidst an ovation from 1,500 civic and sports leaders who attended the testimonial dinner in his honor.

Before handing Bobby the medal, Brundage read a telegram from president Hoover which read: "I cordially congratulate you upon the honor of receiving the James E. Sullivan memorial medal for fine performance and good sportsmanship for the year 1930, and rejoice with your innumerable other admirers in this further recognition."

Herbert Ramsey of New York, president of the United States Golf association, and Amos Alonzo Stagg, Sr., of the University of Chicago, dean of the country's football coaches, also paid high tribute to Jones' achievements and sportsmanship.

HILBERT CONSIDERS BASEBALL SEASON

Villagers Will Enter League Again if One Is Organized in District

Hilbert—With signs of spring the Hilbert baseball fans are beginning to show their spirit for out side sport by getting together to decide on a strong team for the coming season.

Hilbert won the pennant in the local league last year and expects to prove as good this year. Last year the club was under heavy expense due to getting the diamond in shape and erecting the grandstand, besides new suits and supplies. All this will be eliminated leaving a few minor expenses to begin with.

Several of last years players are discussing the outside player proposition and from all indications the local boys think they have enough talent to carry them through successfully. Six of last years players are still able to play. Some of the younger players have shown exceptional ability and if given attention no doubt will join future ball clubs.

If no league is formed independent teams can be played as Chilton, Kiel, Valders and Brillion all are planning on having a team in the field this spring.

Jack Donaghy engaged in 79 boxing contests with 49 knockouts to his credit.

Conquers Conger

There's no telling how long Ray Conger would have continued his winning streak on America's indoor running tracks if Carl A. S. Coan, above, spindly-legged miler of the University of Pennsylvania, hadn't come along. Stealing the mile king's thunder with a brilliant last lap burst of speed in true Conger fashion, Coan breezed by the Iowa schoolmaster and bested the tape winner in 4:13, the fastest time since Lloyd Hahn's 4:12.2 in 1927. It was in the Baxter mile of the recent New York-A. C. games in Madison Square Garden.

HOOSIERS PICKED AS TRACK WINNERS

Quadrangular Meet Shows Gophers, Indiana, Wildcats and Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—Indiana's track squad, fortified with greater all-around strength than ever before, was a big choice to win over Minnesota, Purdue and Northwestern in a quadrangular meet tonight at Paten, gymnasium, Northwestern's stronghold.

The Hoosiers, equipped with outstanding power in the distance runs, and better than ordinary strength in sprints, hurdles and pole vault, made themselves noticeable recently by defeating Ohio State's strong team in a dual meeting, and only Minnesota appears capable of making a contest of tonight's event.

Minnesota will have Captain Johnny Bass in the sprint and hurdles, and Clarence Munn, captain-elect of the 1931 Gopher football squad, in the shotput. Indiana's bets are Brocksmith, Leas and Kemp in the distance events, and Gordon in the dashes.

Northernwestern scored only 22 points in a quadrangular meet with Wisconsin, Ohio State and Chicago last week, and doesn't figure to do more than get a first place in the polevault out of Tommy Warne, and scattered places in other events. Purdue, without Orval Martin, its great middle distance man, appears to be without an outstanding performer.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Syracuse, N. Y.—Jackie Fields, Los Angeles, outpointed Jackie Brady, Syracuse (10).

Boston—Lou Spozza, Buffalo, N. Y., outpointed Tony Schurcca, Boston (10).

Philadelphia—Bud Mangino, Boundbrook, N. J., knocked out Jimmy Walker, Philadelphia (1).

Bethlehem, Pa.—Pete Latzo, Scranton, Pa., outpointed Sam Weiss, Allentown, Pa. (10).

McKeesport, Pa.—Jimmy Belmont, Bradford, Pa., outpointed Joe Tripp, Rochester, N. Y. (10).

Football Trains Boys To Make Decisions, Play Game Of Life--Thistlethwaite

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE LOOMY

Glenn Thistlethwaite they call him—Cold, unemotional and temperamentally unfit to coach boys on a football team, his critics charge—And yet he talks of his proteges as though they were his own boys, backs them up despite admitted weaknesses in physical or mental make-up, positive in his statement he'd give them another chance despite the fact that they once failed in a similar position, failure that nearly cost him his job—that's the football coach at the University of Wisconsin if one is to judge him by his words, attitude and the interest he showed in the Badger football team while talking to Neenah Rotarians Thursday noon.

And being at Neenah that interest was more or less local for John Schneller, Neenah, is a member of the Badger grid squad. However, there were no claims of future greatness for the big fullback for as the grid mentor said, "for me to say anything about Schneller's future would be putting him in a hole, people would be expecting too much of him and it might be the one thing that kept him from attaining the heights."

Thistlethwaite was introduced to the Rotarians, six members of the graduating class of Neenah high school, and several of their teachers by H. P. "Cub" Buck, for three years all-American tackle on the Badger grid squad.

"The Best Coach" "I think Thistlethwaite is the best coach Wisconsin has ever had," Buck said as he recounted that since his playing days he had known intimately every Badger mentor.

"That remark is no idle jest for I know him to be shrewd and smart, with the best wishes of the university authorities and the alumni, the greatest part of whom are for him."

Thistlethwaite made no effort to defend himself from attacks hurled at him or for his record at Wisconsin. He made but one thrust at his critics in a remark that "football coaches always get a lot of advice. As we go down the street a man on this corner tells us what we should do. On the next corner another man tells us how to run the team, but the unfortunate part of it is they never agree and we have to go along using our own poor judgement."

Pointing out that the average critics of football teams, players and coaches think only in terms of victory and not of boys who make up the squad, Coach Thistlethwaite asked that his audience remember the boys are only humans, therefore not perfect and subject to mental and physical weaknesses or strength that make them fair or good players.

And in that connection he asked they be given sympathy so that they might improve, get satisfaction and pleasure from their efforts rather than take the opposite attitude which might prompt them to wonder whether they wanted to continue.

Defends Rebolzh The Badger mentor then recalled the Purdue game which Wisconsin lost by one point, because Rebolzh fell in the kick for the "Would I send him in there to do it again? Yes!" Thistlethwaite said for it is such tests, in his estimation, that make for stronger individuals in later life. Were he thinking of his own ambitions to the detriment of the youth he then might deny a boy an opportunity to try something he had failed in once before.

"Think in terms of the boys rather than the point" he said.

Bill Lusby, another Badger back was the subject of another story showing what the Badger mentor thinks of his charges. It was in the Pennsylvania game, Thisty said, in the third quarter with the Badgers advancing into Penn territory. Reaching the 23 yard line on a series of plays Lusby sized up the situation and decided on a pass that resulted in a touchdown. "Had he failed, Thistlethwaite said, I would not hold it against him for I wouldn't deny him the opportunity to again make the decision."

He also told how Sam Behr last fall tried a Purdue end 12 or 13 times during the game and had failed every time. But he continued driving away with the same effort in the face of discouragement and on the thirteenth or fourteenth time the Purdue defense broke and Behr raced 53 yards for a touchdown.

"Just a Step" Gantenbein's extra effort in getting a forward pass in the Minnesota game was the subject of another story by the Badger coach who pointed out that football teaches the present day youth what a little extra effort might get him, a counterpart to Napoleon's remark that the difference between victory and defeat is just a step.

Thistlethwaite does not believe in the protest that goes up about backfield men getting all the credit in game, the result of public's not realizing the value of a lineman's effort. He believes that while the condition is to be regretted it has its value in that the boy learns to take his part in the game regardless of the credit he may get out of it.

He then referred to an Iowa game played on a muddy field where Lusby, playing safety, failed to handle a single punt on instructions from his coaches. In the second half he handled one and it slipped from his hands. It was noted that Iowa ends weren't getting down the field as fact as usual and later Lusby again was given the signal to run a punt back. He fumbled the ball, picked it up and dashed down the sidelines with Badger backs taking out the first few men. As he reached the line of scrimmage two Badger guards took out the last two men and Lusby scored.

"Lusby's run wasn't the feature, it was the work of the boys up ahead," he said, "boys who probably never got much credit for their effort. And so it is in the game of life where men often battle and someone else makes the head lines while the real reason for the success never even gets on the front page."

The Badger mentor deplored the situation that has come about in the last few years by reason of so much wealth and prosperity which has resulted in many boys asking "What do I get for it?" when asked to do something. However, times now have changed, he said, and youths will have to work for whatever they get and there is no better training for the grind that is called life than football training or training in other branches of sports.

Games This Week. Fond du Lac at Manitowoc. Oshkosh at Sheboygan. Appleton at West Green Bay. East Green Bay, no game. Martine at Menominee (non-conference).

Appleton high school basketball team will play its second game this week when it takes the floor at West Green Bay tonight in a valley conference battle. The game is one of three remaining on the Orange schedule.

Tonight's test against Murph White's big team will be a real one for the Appleton quintet. The boys are coasting along as Valley conference leaders, a task in itself, and every team in the loop would like to knock them off. The Bays caused much trouble several weeks ago when they visited in Appleton and, with a couple tall, rangy boys they may be counted upon to again make things interesting.

The Orange cagers rested Thursday evening after their wild victory over Neenah Wednesday night and should be ready for the contest. They worked hard in the last half of the Neenah game but they had things pretty much their own way in the first half.

Bobbie Kule and Ken Priebe will get the nod for forwards and Bill Peotter will jump at center. Ed Mortell and Joe Verrier have that defensive record to watch together with the job of getting the ball in to the Orange forwards. Reserves for the team will be Collins, and Bowly, forwards, and Murphy guard.

Second teams from the two schools are scheduled to perform in the opening game which begins at 7 o'clock.

MILLER CORDS WIN FROM KIMBERLY IN ONE-SIDED BATTLE

Rommel and Slavic Run Wild and Appleton Pros Cop Easily, 41-21

KIMBERLY—The Miller Cords, Appleton pro basketball team, added another win to their record when they trounced the Kimberly All Stars in a one-sided but very interesting game, Thursday evening at the clubhouse, 41-21. The Cords were on and shot the apple through the hoop from all angles.

Zelle Rommel and Jerry Slavic made a few one handers from the side that looked plenty good, while the Kimberly lads were lost and couldn't find the hoop at all. Not only did the Cords excel in caging field goals but they showed rare ability in shooting free throws. They scored 11 points via this route.

Schneller opened hostilities when he caged a neat field goal on a follow up from a mass of scrimmage. Busch of the Papermakers retaliated with a short shot after a series of passes gave him the ball under the basket. Appleton again took the lead when Slavic made good his free shot on Koll's personal. Then baskets by Schneller and Scheurle gave the Cords a little lead. Koll and Du Courchane each sank a field goal for the Kimberly aggregation and Scheurle made a free throw count. Just as the first period came to a close he dropped in another field goal from the side and the quarter ended with the Cords leading 10 to 6.

During the second period Slavic scored two neat field goals, Rommel added two points via the free throw route and then toward the end of the period Rommel and Slavic both found the hoop and the only thing the Papermakers could show was a field goal by Gossens. This gave the Cords a big lead, the score being 20 to 8 at the mid-point.

The third quarter opened roughly and persons were called right and left. Out of the mess Rommel made one free try, and Schneller made one. Du Courchane made two free tries for the Kimberly squad. Then Rommel got "hot" and sank two long shots in fast order. Slavic accounted for one, and Du Pont of the Stars sank a long shot. Scheurle concluded the scoring for that period when he made his free try on Courchane's personal good. The score at the close of this quarter was 30 to 13. In the last period the Cords played a slow sure game and both teams battled on an even basis.

EXILES MUST SHUN PLOTS OR EVACUATE

Santiago, Chile—(P)—Chile just now is a favorite asylum for political exiles from Bolivia and Peru, but receives them refugees with warnings to eschew politics and keep quiet.

Those who grow careless or do not believe in the sincerity of this admonition find themselves again on their way—sometimes back toward the very place where they wish least to go.

Consequently such intrigues as may exist among these foreigners are invisible.

Hernando Siles, erstwhile dictator of Bolivia, is probably the most prominent refugee in the country. He was deposed by a military junta last June, and now passes quiet days at the noted seashore resort of Vina del Mar.

There are many other Bolivians among the exiles, but they are outnumbered by Peruvians. Hearing that delegation is Dr. Sebastian Lorente, who was minister of health in the cabinet of ex-President Leguia. The doctor is wanted by the national sanctions court of Peru to explain certain past events.

Ty Cobb Sits At Home And Dreams Of Days When He Will Hunt African Game

BY DILLON GRAHAM
ATLANTA, GA.—(P)—Ty Cobb sits in a big easy chair, smoke rings curling around his lean head and bronzed features, and dreams of the big game he is going to hunt some day in Africa. He has been doing that for years. He has never been closer to the jungles with a gun than Canada.

But he dreams on. Plans have been changed and rehanged. Bear, mountain lions, moose have fallen before his crack shooting on preparatory trips. He wants those elephants, crocodiles and rhinos. But something else always comes up.

Golf Is His Game
Golf is his game now. He plays with the same fervor and zest that made him the center fielder of all time. He shoots in the low eighties and does it left handed. He tries to kill the ball on every long shot and so he presses. He hits wonderful slices.

Ty was playing one day with Bobby Jones over a North Carolina course. They were off their respective games. Both were slightly peeved.

Coming up to the eighteenth tee Cobb decided to drive right handed and Bobby swung from the left side. They put four balls in a creek in front of the green. Solemnly they shook hands and went home.

Mrs. Cobb can tell you from Ty's footsteps when he hits the front porch whether he has won or lost. It used to be the same when he was playing baseball. He puts the same fervor and dash into both games. The stronger the opposition, the better he plays. And he can't bear to lose—at anything.

The last time he wrestled with his 14 year old son, Herschel, a husky 255 pound lad, it took everything Ty had to down the boy. He hasn't wrestled Herschel since. He won't let his son throw him. But he loves to play with the kids.

Next to golf, Ty likes to fish and hunt. He prides himself on being able to take young fellows out and walk 'em down. He quit baseball because his legs went back on him. He goes after birds on horseback and hunts fox at night. He has to exercise daily or he feels badly.

Since retirement Cobb feels like a schoolboy on vacation. He has no desire to play ball again. Some day he may purchase a ball club. Baseball meant nothing but hard work to him after his first year as hitting champion. He had to struggle too hard to protect his record.

His home is a picture-gallery and the walls are covered with pictures of himself, other baseball stars,

United States president's celebrities of all kinds. His scrap books are filled with action pictures. The walls of his den are covered with animals he has killed, bear skins, tanned deer hides. He has given away all the bats and balls that figured in the making of his hitting records. But he still has a few of the uniforms he wore at the height of his career.

Ty was one of the most superstitious men in baseball. When he saw a wagon load of barrels passing he was in for a good day. Every hair pin he found meant a base hit. During a hitting streak he would never change sweat shirt, or socks. He still won't leave his bat on a bed or walk under a ladder. He turns his back if a black cat comes his way and crosses his fingers on both hands if he meets someone whose eyes are out of line.

People Eat Too Much
He thinks the American people as a whole eat too much. For 2 day's food he is satisfied with a light breakfast and dinner at six o'clock. He likes to ride his fine saddle horses and is a stickler for obedience. He loves dogs and often judges at field trials, but is losing interest in the competitions because he thinks trainers are going in more for speed than accuracy in developing the bird spotters.

His favorite story is one about the rookie outfielder. It was in the days when Cobb was the scourge of the basepaths and the unwritten baseball law was never to throw behind him. The Georgia Peach got hold of one and rammed a line hit out to the youngster. Cobb turned first base as the rookie picked up the ball.

Without a sign of hesitation, the green hand rifled the ball to the home plate.

Ty Cobb was not going to outmaneuver him.

ASK STATES TO MARK HIGHWAYS FOR PILOTS

Washington—(P)—Co-operation of the 48 state highway commissions in marking highways as guides for aircraft pilots is sought by Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of the department of commerce for aeronautics.

In a letter to each commission, Young pointed out that many of the main highways, frequently used as guides by airmen, are not identified.

A uniform method was recommended in painting directly on pavements the guide marks at intersections and at intervals of 10 miles. The identifications, made up of characters from 10 to 30 feet in height, include the number of the highway prefixed by the letters "US" for federal highways, or by the state abbreviation for state highways.

The aggregate value of all Canadian field crops in 1930 was estimated at $631,592,900, a 33 per cent decline from the 1929 estimate.

WISCONSIN RANKS 11TH AMONG STATES IN USE OF CANDY

Statistics Show 14.08 Pounds of Sweets Consumed Per Person in State

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Wash. Bureau)

Washington—How sweet is Wisconsin? Well, the sweet tooth of the average Badger is larger than that of the average resident of the country as a whole. Wisconsin is eleventh among the states in the total amount of candy eaten by her citizens, and twenty-first in the per capita consumption.

According to statistics compiled by the United States Department of Commerce, the 42,061,382 pounds of candy eaten in Wisconsin in 1929 was enough to provide an average of 14.08 pounds for each man, woman and child in that state. The general average for the country was 13 pounds. Wisconsin came right between California and Vermont in the list of states and their per capita candy consumption in 1929. The Badger state was sweeter than Vermont, where 13.84 was the average, but not as sweet as California where everyone could eat 14.16 pounds.

The total amount of candy eaten in Wisconsin in 1929 was an increase of more than 1,354,243 pounds over the previous year.

Climatic conditions contribute largely to the amount of candy eaten throughout the country, the department of commerce reports. The Rocky Mountain states had the sweetest teeth in 1929, since Nevada led the nation with 22.55 pounds per capita and Utah was close in second place with 18.73 per capita. Southern states show considerably lower per capita consumption than those with colder climates. "Bon-bons during blizzards," might be a motto for colder states.

The aggregate value of all Canadian field crops in 1930 was estimated at $631,592,900, a 33 per cent decline from the 1929 estimate.

SEA MORE IMPORTANT AS POPULATION GROWS
La Jolla, Cal.—(P)—The sea becomes more important as population increases and the demand for food and other natural products becomes more exacting, says Prof. W. E. Allen of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

The assistance of experts in handling marine products, he adds, is going to be needed to "furnish the margin of safety in estimating marine productivity and the trend of good or bad influences on marine life."

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

SYNOPSIS: Green, the chauffeur, without realizing consciousness from a dose of poison, complicating the Annabelle Querding murder mystery, Jimmie Haswell has convinced Superintendent Richmond that the confession found beside Green was a forgery, placed there by Miss Querding's niece, Marjorie Blake, who has been seen near the scene of the spinsters' murder. Richmond, despite Marjorie's frankness in telling Jimmie of her marriage, is still inclined to suspect the pair as plotters to gain her aunt's wealth through murder. Jimmie tells the superintendent to meet him at 10 p. m. sharp in the garden where Miss Querding was slain. Marjorie's sister, Evelyn, is amazed when Jimmie tells her that Green was murdered and a forged confession placed at his side.

It was Stirling at the inquest" continued the major.

Maybe she didn't want to drag her private affairs in public.

"Dye mean you knew it all along?" queried Gresham.

"I may have guessed."

It appeared that Evelyn had kept her promise to Jimmie and had not told her friends about Green, since no one questioned when the major termed him a blackguard. Her self-control was wonderful. Except for an occasional glance at the clock there was nothing to suggest the secret. Finally she suggested bridge.

"If Lionel and I play the first rubber, we will cut out after and leave you four while we have some music."

Nancy and Bill Netherton played against Evelyn and Duckworth. Evelyn and her fiancé were losing, but if she was inattentive, it was hardly surprising.

Once again Evelyn glanced at the clock. The hour was approaching when Jimmie was to meet the superintendent. What would happen after that?

"Your rubber," she said to Nancy. "Lionel and I have to leave the experts to fight it out together."

Evelyn and her lover went into the next room. The game proceeded to the sounds of music. Duckworth was singing and Evelyn playing. The clear powerful voice rang through the house, but it did not distract the players, though one of them would wander from the table when his partner played his hand.

All was still in the Dutch garden, where a figure sat motionless on the seat beside the stone steps. Above it, the gate stretched its arms in evil invitation.

Fifteen minutes passed without outward sound or movement. No light was visible from the music room, for that door was shut and the curtain drawn across it. The music continued. The song "To the Desert" was begun.

Then silently, but quickly, a shadow moved from the shade of the house to the hedge-hidden pathway leading to the Dutch garden. The form crept nearer to the broad stone steps and crawled up to the level of the wall on which the satyr stood. Then it leapt up, gloved hands gave the stone image a swift, unhesitating thrust, and it fell, crashing to the figure beneath.

No sound followed, but the snapping of woodwork and the breaking of the stone. The shadow stooped again and made to run. Then there was a sound! Two forms sprang from the shelter of the trees and seized the escaping criminal.

The startled villain was thrown to the ground, and it was but a matter of moments for cords to secure his trembling limbs.

"You hold him now, Don. I will be back soon."

With these words Jimmie sprang away—started to run to the house. As he did so the clock in the hall struck ten and the strong voice in the music-room sang the opening lines of "September Roses."

Jimie crossed the lawn and hastened to the drive in front. There, punctual to the second, he met Superintendent Richmond.

"This way," he led Richmond through the open hall door and headed toward the music room.

"Roses of memory, roses of September"—came the words clearly enough. Silently he turned the handle, but the door was locked. Quickly they ran back, through the garden to the curtained doorway of the same room. Without a moment's hesitation Jimmie thrust his weight against the door. It yielded, and he stumbled through the parting curtains the bewildered Richmond following.

At first the room appeared to be empty. Then they saw Evelyn standing alone, trembling, half-hidden by the curtains they had so rudely thrust aside.

(Copyright, 1931 J. B. Lippincott Co.)

But—strangely, in Monday's installment, the song goes on as Jimmie brings in the murderer.

North Carolina's order even this season is one of the best in the state's history, but the demand is slow.

It is difficult to give a toast when you haven't the crowd to stand up before a crowd!

CONTROL METHOD STIRS ARGUMENT IN OIL SQUABBLE

Cheap Foreign Oil Is Causing Trouble in U. S., Dealers Say

Washington—(AP)—“The oil world is boiling in its own barrels, and the trouble is too much oil.”

Where the supply originates provides the controversial factor of a long simmering problem of importance to about 20,000,000 persons.

Cheap foreign oil is responsible for the ills of the petroleum producers, the independent operators city. Stop that flow, they say, and the industry will get back on its feet quickly. That's why they want a tariff.

American production, the independents say, is less than American consumption, but by only a comparatively few million barrels yearly. They estimate crude production within 150,000,000 barrels of the demand.

Would Bar Refined Products
Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum association, says one barrel of refined oil imported equals four times that amount of crude petroleum.

For this reason he laid before the recent governors' oil relief conference, of which he was chairman, the proposal it is urging on congress—that imports of crude oil be placed under a partial embargo and that refined products be excluded. Finished oil imported in 1929, records of the oil conservation board show, totaled about 50,000,000 barrels, largely from Venezuela. In addition there were 20,000,000 barrels of crude oil imported. Against this, American exports were 115,000,000 barrels of which 60 per cent was crude petroleum.

See Relief In Tariff
The expressed goal of the independent operators, who control about 300,000 wells with an average daily production of 500,000 barrels, is a tariff. They believe relief will be provided through duty schedules.

Members of congress from the oil states have rallied to aid the producers. Their triple appeal for the partial embargo, the ban upon refined petroleum and the tariff has been answered with bills introduced in the house and the senate.

Meanwhile, the federal conservation board, whose chairman Secretary Wilbur was criticized with Secretary Mellon by the oil men at their conference, presents data to offset that of the independents.

Conservation Urged
Wilbur believes conservation of American petroleum resources, which he considers irreplaceable, should be the keynote of the oil world. The potential overproduction, he maintains, will be felt even more by the industry within the near future unless the outpouring is controlled.

Production, in his opinion, far exceeds consumption, and “bad engineering, bad business and bad practice, among other things,” have put the industry where it is.

Negro Show Enters Its Second Year On Broadway

New York—(AP)—“I hope,” Ring Lardner wired Marc Connelly a year ago tonight, “that the Mansfield will be dark for a year.”

That first year will round the corner tonight, for it was on Feb. 26, 1930, that “The Lawd” entered the Mansfield stage—a good and noble man, in the frock coat and tie of a deep south Negro parson—created the earth, ordered the flood, and saw the chosen people out of Egypt and into the land of Canaan.

One year of the play, with very little change save a new Angel Gabriel—the first one, Wesley Hill, having been killed by a taxicab. More than 400,000 persons have attended the 424 performances. The management has hung out the “S. R. O.” sign three times this week. Tonight's performance was just about sold out yesterday afternoon.

One complete set of costumes has been worn out. The cherubs out-grew theirs. The four-year-old who gets a fishbone stuck in her throat at the celestial fish fry has grown two inches in the last twelve months. The older children have settled down to a regular routine. They all go to the public schools daytime, and they all passed their last examinations.

Richard B. Harrison, who plays the role of Jehovah, and who has a dramatic reader and teacher for 30 years before he became a Broadway star, counts on having a job at least two more years, since the play will go on tour after it winds up here.

After that he is going back to the classroom and the platform, although he has had several flattering offers.

“I'm no actor,” he said today.

PEA GROWERS INVADE NORTHWESTERN AREAS

Spokane, Wash.—(AP)—Pea growers, adhering to the formula of supply and demand, have invaded the Palouse wheat region to merchandise their product.

The probable demand is estimated before decisions on planting and contracts are made.

In the 1930 season 75 per cent of 70,000 acres planted in the Palouse region was on a contract basis. An average crop of 20 bushels to the acre was produced at a return of $24 an acre.

This was comparable to a yield of $15.60 per acre for 20 bushels of wheat in midyear. Wheat men have begun to rotate with peas as a fertilizing crop after the land has been planted to wheat for two or three years. Most of the peas, however, come from farms strictly devoted to the vegetable.

PARTY FRICTION FACES DEMOCRATS IN 1932 ELECTION

Double-barreled Threat of Strife Seen at Convention

Washington—(AP)—A double-barreled threat of intra-party strife over prohibition and of revolt against Raskob leadership hovers over the democratic national committee meeting here March 5.

The battle for ballots in 1932 naturally is expected to be a subject of primary consideration when delegates from all states—wet, dry and moist—gather at the call of John J. Raskob, chairman, to meet with the executive committee and legislative leaders of the party.

The announced purpose of the conference is to have committee members examine a new expert financing scheme and to discuss policies governing our activities during the next 25 months.

Almost immediately after the calling of the conference, the first since the 1928 convention, there was a flood of gossip as to significance of a national party so long before a campaign.

There were rumors of Raskob's resignation, reports that a definite decision as to the party's stand on prohibition and a program for democrats in the next congress would be formulated.

Coincidentally with these reports, the voice of rebellion against Raskob leadership and commitment of the party to the wet cause was heard in the halls of congress.

Southern democrats led by Senator Shepard of Texas and Morrison of North Carolina opened fire on Raskob and J. M. Thomas, head of the democratic executive committee, saying they would fight any attempt to put a wet label on the party.

On the other hand, Senators Wagner of New York and Tydings of Maryland have pleaded with their democratic colleagues in congress for sponsorship by the party in 1932 of outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Meanwhile at democratic headquarters here, where Raskob's lieutenant, Thomas, directs activities on the "firing line," it was said "there might be some fireworks at the March 5 meeting" but that no sensational developments were expected. It was said the conference undoubtedly would consider some phases of the prohibition question.

Whether the committee will take a definite stand on the liquor issue remains to be seen.

Raskob's supporters point to the concerted campaign which resulted in democratic victories in the 1930 congressional election as vindication of the man who has been called both the party's "financial angel" and "Smith's monumental mistake."

Raskob himself never has publicly indicated an intention to give up the post he has held since shortly after the nomination of Alfred E. Smith for president in 1928.

Some prominent figures in the party, feeling the liquor question is "loaded with dynamite," oppose making prohibition a major issue.

STUDIES OF SEA HELP REVEAL STORY OF LIFE

La Jolla, Calif.—(AP)—Solution of some of the apparently insignificant problems of the sea may lead to magnificent achievement, says Prof. W. E. Allen of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

"From food, clothing and jewels to agricultural fertilizers," he says, "there is a long list of biological products of the sea, any and all of which may be better controlled and handled for human uses if more is known about the lives of their producers, and the conditions affecting their production."

There is the claim to aid in interpreting the history of the earth, the history of life on the earth, and the history of mankind, through comparison of present forms and conditions of life with those of the past.

74 YEARS TO PAY
New York—In June, 1932, Mrs. George Sabel won a divorce suit from her husband. George hadn't paid a cent of alimony up to 1931, so Mrs. Sabel took him to court again. The judge decreed that he had to pay her $30 a week and $1 a week to catch up on his back alimony. At this rate it will take him until the year 2005 to catch up with his arrears of $3,570.

NEW ORLEANS PLACES BIG STAKE ON PORT

New Orleans, La.—(AP)—New Orleans has started work on a $62,000,000 program of port improvements in preparation for the return of the good old days of heavy traffic on the Mississippi.

The city foresees the dawn of a new prosperity in an announcement that the last link of a through-channel from Chicago to New Orleans will be completed by the summer of 1933.

Officials of the Mississippi Valley association predict that completion of this link will result in the movement of 200,000,000 tons yearly of water-borne freight, and a lion's share of this commerce will probably originate in or be destined to this port.

New Orleans is preparing for it by spending $5,000,000 for ten new public wharves; $95,500,000 for new rail terminals and bridges; $15,000,000 for steamships; $11,500,000 for waterways and barge line improvements; and $4,000,000 on other miscellaneous port facilities.

The Great Lakes define 3,300 miles of the total boundary line of the United States, according to the Duluth, Minn., chamber of commerce.

In the many tomorrows that come, we may be comforted by the knowledge that the remains of the departed are completely protected — if the Buckstaff Burial Vault has been used. This Vault is made of 12-gauge purified Keystone Copper Steel, tested under 5000 pounds hydraulic pressure. It is guaranteed for 99 years to keep out ground waters and burrowing animals. Many families regard it as necessary as the casket.

Snakes, Lizards, 'Gators Move Into Their New Homes

Washington—(AP)—Today was moving day for the turtles, alligators, snakes and lizards at the National zoo.

Into their fifty new reptile houses they went in crates, buckets, gunny-sacks, and strong boxes locked for safety's sake.

Each found its own vine and fig tree, in some cases a cactus, in native-habitat cages, modeled by Dr. William M. Mann, director. Mrs. Mann helped by hand-decorating 15 cages.

Little green lizards happily scurried under the stones Mr. Mann set for them, or sunned on their comfy beds of cactus spines. A 28-foot east Indian python, longest in captivity, snuggled snuggly, luxuriously into the scenic pool she had helped prepare.

"Their enjoyment is really visible," said Dr. Mann. "See that lizard laugh?"

Never, he said, had he witnessed such activity among the cold-blooded clans. Proudly he moved among the rapturous reptiles, calling attention to how they were behaving.

One hundred pound land turtles, 100 years old, that had been sluggish for months lumbered excitedly about, craning long, withered necks to see the hand-painted scenery. They were moved in three days ago and have been eating every day since. In their dingy old home they ate but once a week.

Crocodiles and alligators lay on the banks in a tropic setting and registered delight. Water turtles swam twice as fast as ever before, exploring.

The 26-foot python that has been poorly of late, falling from 135 to 84 pounds, emerged from his bath and demanded food. A banded rattlesnake shed his skin to be freshly-shining at tomorrow night's formal opening of the reptile house.

PARTICLES HOLD KEY TO SPECIES IDENTITY

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—"Genes," says Dr. Calvin B. Bridges, geneticist at the California Institute of Technology, "are numerous tiny bits of special chemicals existing in the nucleus of each cell."

"They are so minute that it is doubtful whether they can be seen with the best microscopes, yet so powerful that they are the agents that determine whether a given cell will develop into a flea, an elephant or a man."

COLONIAL AREAS TO BE SAVED AS NATIONAL SHRINE

Historic Centers in Virginia to Be Preserved by Government

Washington—(AP)—Historic centers in Virginia, bearing the battle scars of the birth of a nation, will be preserved by the government.

Rich in the lore of colonial and revolutionary valor, three of Virginia's shrines have been proclaimed a national monument by President Hoover to guard their wealth.

The Colonial National Monument, as the area is, to be known, lies within the few miles between Jamestown Island, the first settlement, and the Yorktown battlefield, where Cornwallis surrendered.

Centered Around Williamsburg

Williamsburg, the old capital of colonial Virginia, where John D. Rockefeller has spent hundreds of thousands in restoring the pre-revolutionary buildings, is the center of the memorial.

A wide, smooth highway will link the island with Williamsburg, and Williamsburg with Yorktown. Across the York river from Yorktown is Gloucester Point, made part of the monument.

The southern half of Jamestown Island is the beginning of the monument. The heart of Williamsburg, in which are grouped the old buildings, and the eastern half of Yorktown, with the surrounding battlefield area, form the rest.

Thousands to be Spent
Director Horace M. Albright of the national park service, in charge of the project, says he expects to expedite all work through cooperation with Virginia state groups.

And Go Swiftly or Money Back — 65 Cents a Bottle

Why send a boy to do man's work?
